

Doubts Right Of Rickman to Post as Motor Bureau Chief

Secretary of State Asks Advice of Martin

O. K. REQUIRED

Madison — (P) — Fred R. Zimmerman, Republican secretary of state, today raised a question as to the qualifications of Colonel W. Rickman of Racine to head the new state motor vehicle department, and asked Attorney General John E. Martin for advice.

Rickman was appointed by Governor Heil yesterday as director of the department, creation of which was opposed by Zimmerman when the enabling bill was before the legislature.

The secretary of state, who audits all pay vouchers, asked Martin whether he would have legal right to approve payment of Rickman's salary—$5,000 a year—if an attack were made on the appointee's qualifications.

Rickman must be confirmed by the senate before he can assume his duties.

Zimmerman said a section of the act establishing the new department provided the director should be appointed on a basis of "recognized interest, training and experience" and should possess a "knowledge and understanding" of the powers and duties of the office.

In a letter to the attorney general, Zimmerman said if the senate confirmed Rickman and he took over his duties, the secretary of state's office might be faced with a question of its right to certify the pay roll.

Asserting he was concerned over the possibilities he asked Martin for an answer to the following question:

(A) Is the governor the ultimate judge of the qualification of the commissioner (director) and does that question become settled upon the appointment of the commissioner by the governor and confirmation by the senate, or may that question be inquired into at a later date; (B) If the latter is the case, when and by whom may such a question be raised; (C) Is the secretary of state fully protected in paying the salary of the commissioner if an attack on his qualifications is made?

Creation of the department as a separate unit was part of the administration's reorganization program. It was designed to consolidate under one head the auto license functions of the secretary of state and vehicle regulatory duties scattered among other departments.

Zimmerman favored confirmation of the functions but sought unsuccessfully to have the division established within the secretary of state's office on the contention it would save money.

Governor Signs Bill To Let Localities Pass on Beer Sale

Madison — (P) — A bill giving local communities the right to vote on whether beer shall be sold within their boundaries was signed into law yesterday by Governor Heil.

Local option formerly extended only to hard liquor.

The new law requires a referendum of 15 per cent of the voters in a community petition for one.

Other new laws provide:

State department rules, regulations, and orders having the force of law must be published as a supplement to the state statutes.

The jurisdiction of the Kenosha municipal court extends to actions involving $100,000 instead of $50,000.

Natural, uncurd cheese owned by the manufacturer is exempt from property taxation.

All employees for Milwaukee county employees must be approved in September or October to take effect the following January.

Injured Were With Party From Letter Carriers Convention

Milwaukee — (P) — Six persons were injured, two seriously, when an elevator carrying 15 persons dropped three floors at a Breving company building last night.

Most seriously hurt were Loren Johnson, 33, and Claude McGiffin, 30, both of Detroit. Johnson was fractured vertebrae and McGiffin with internal injuries.

They were with a party from the convention of the National Association of Letter Carriers.

Four others hospitalized were: Miles Messerman, 36, Lancaster, Pa., fractured right knee; Mrs. Lillian Mattson, 30, Detroit, internal injuries; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nagel, both 32, Scranton, Pa., both internal injuries.

Seven were dismissed from a hospital after treatment for shock, and were: William Mattson, 33, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Biddle, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Putt, Camp Hill, Pa.; and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Rourke, Detroit.

Deloit Uckert, 39, the operator and Roy McCall, 30, of Detroit, escaped unhurt.

Speed Sought in Medical Action

Government Wants Supreme Court to Permit Early Decision

Washington — (P) — The government asked the supreme court today to permit a short-cut to a final decision in the department of justice's contention that the American Medical association and a group of other organizations and individuals violated the anti-trust laws.

The department asked the high tribunal to take immediate jurisdiction of the case on waiting for the outcome of a routine appeal filed previously with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Justice James M. Proctor dismissed in district court last July an indictment charging the defendants with activities in restraint of trade against Group Health association, Inc., a cooperative organization providing pre-paid medical care for federal employees.

Justice Proctor held that medicine was not a trade but a learned profession.

"The public interest will be served, the justice department told the supreme court, by a prompt and final decision as to whether a group organized to provide medical care for its members and the professional men and women who serve that outcome are protected by the anti-trust laws from restrictive activity by other groups."

London — (P) — The London Star said today it had heard that the German airship Graf Zeppelin was blown up at its moorings at Friedrichshafen Sept. 4 as the result of sabotage.

Says Papers of Foreign Agents Were Forgeries

Gitlow Claims 'Passport Factories' Created in Moscow, Berlin

HAD LARGE STAFFS

Pelley Files $3,150,000 Suit Against Committee Members

Washington — (P) — A former Communist leader testified today that Russian leaders operated "passport factories" in Berlin and Moscow to provide forged passports for world travel by secret agents and party workers.

Ben Gitlow, who preceded Earl Browder as secretary of the Communist party in the United States, told the house committee investigating un-American activities, however, that known communist leaders "preferred to travel on legitimate passports."

Gitlow, who was expelled from the Communist party in 1929, said it "was easy" to obtain genuine American passports to any part of the world.

These, he said, then were turned over to the passport factories for use in duplication, or use by soviet agents.

Gitlow said the communist, governing body of the international communist party, maintained a large staff of secret agents in every country in the world.

Counterfeiting Scheme
Gitlow said Russian secret agents had backed a scheme to counterfeit more than $1,000,000 of American currency about 1927 in a desperate effort to obtain needed funds for the international communist party.

As a result, a sincere Communist, Dr. Val Burtan, now is serving a 15-year prison sentence at Atlanta because he was the dupe of the GPU (Russian secret police), Gitlow told the committee.

The witness related that Burtan contacted a "former German army officer and adventurer," who arranged to have the American money duplicated in Germany by an expert engraver who was a communist.

The money was brought to this country and circulated in Chicago, Gitlow said, when federal agents caught the German and then Burtan. Both now are serving federal prison terms, he added.

SUES FOR $3,150,000

Washington — (P) — William Dudley Pelley, chief of the Silver Shirts, filed $3,150,000 damages in a suit filed in federal district court today against members of the house committee investigating un-American activities and one of the committee's investigators.

The Asherlin N. C. publisher told the court that members of the committee had "maliciously and without foundation" publicly charged him with being a "representative of the German government, a racketeer, a violator of the criminal statutes of the United States and a public enemy."

Named defendants were Chairman Dies (O-Texas) and Representative Thomas (R-N. J.), Starnes (D-Ala.), Demsey (D-N. M.), Massey (R-Ill.) and Voorhis (D-Calif.) and Robert B. Parker, committee investigator. Representative Casey (D-Mass.), appointed recently to the group, was the only present member not named as a defendant.

Klunkner was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Klunkner of Cashton.

Small Area in Netherlands Is Flooded as Precaution in Event of Spread of Conflict

Amsterdam — (P) — The Netherlands today inundated a "small basin" in Utrecht province, about 20 miles southeast of Amsterdam, as a defense precaution.

The exact location of the flooded area was not announced but it was said to be roughly in the center of the country.

An official announcement said the step was taken "to ascertain the inundation possibilities of Holland at any time in relation to the existing water level." It emphasized there was no immediate reason for flooding the basin other than as a precautionary measure under their defense plans.

The government said it would see that the civil population of the flooded district suffered the least possible inconvenience. Netherlands newspapers carried only a brief announcement of the action.

Hitler Decrees Frontier Of 1914 for Reich; Fate Of Warsaw Still in Doubt

Most of Warndt Forest Is Claimed by French

SLOW ADVANCE

Army Still Cleaning Up Routes to Sieg- fried Line

Paris — (P) — The French high command announced in a communique today the Warndt forest, west of Forbach, had fallen almost entirely into the hands of French troops.

The communique indicated steady French progress toward Germany's rich Saar basin.

Military observers said the French army was in possession of approximately 200 square miles of German territory, of which 20 square miles was in the Warndt forest, which covers rich coal deposits.

Forbach is on the northern flank of the French line where tanks and infantry were reported to have reached the Saar river in their advance toward the Siegfried line. That would mean they have penetrated seven to eight miles into German territory.

The reported capture of Warndt forest tracts further served to straighten the French line which jutted back into France like a huge knob.

French spokesmen, however, pointed out operations on the western front so far, including the reported advance in the forest, fell in the category of "preliminary" cleaning up of approaches to the Siegfried line.

The official journal informed French civilians they must shoulder heavier burdens to meet war expenses.

Says High Prices Will Injure Labor

Union Head in Message To President, Secretary Perkins

Indianapolis — (P) — President Roosevelt and Secretary Perkins had a statement from Claude M. Baker of San Francisco, International Typographical union president, today that labor should get together to save itself from high wartime living costs.

Baker told them in a message from ITU headquarters here yesterday, "unless all elements in America cooperate, there may be a repetition of 20 years ago, when inflation and runaway costs of living destroyed advances made by labor over a long period."

The Congress of Industrial Organizations and American Federation of Labor would have ended their strife long ago, said Baker, if members had been able to make themselves heard. He said few unions had machinery for submitting policy questions to the membership.

"The ITU is under suspension from the AFL for refusing to pay a cent-a-month assessment to fight the CIO. President Baker said, however, if the AFL expelled his union at the national convention in Cincinnati next month, the ITU would not affiliate with the CIO.

"Warfare in organized labor," said Baker, "has assumed the proportions of a national nuisance."

Pittman Avers Freedom Of Seas Is Suspended

Los Angeles — (P) — Senator Pittman (D-Nev.), chairman of the senate foreign affairs committee, believes "people now see that the freedom of the seas must be temporarily suspended when nations war."

"If the Germans should bring submarine warfare into American waters outside New York," he said, "I would be for sending our destroyers to stamp them out like so many rattlesnakes, without any declaration of war. I would never approve sending our troops to Europe, however."

BULLETIN
Ottawa — (Canadian Press) — Prime Minister MacKenzie King told the house of commons today that if the address in reply to the speech from the throne is adopted the government "will immediately take steps for a formal proclamation of a state of war existing between Canada and the German reich."

London — (P) — Reuters (British news agency) asserted that an official Polish report reaching London this evening stated that Warsaw was still in the hands of the Polish army at 11 o'clock this morning (8 a. m., C. S. T.).

Budapest — (P) — The Warsaw radio announced at 6:30 p. m. (11:30 a. m., C. S. T.) today that although the Polish capital was "under constant bombing, we will not yield!" "We will hold out to the very last!" said the broadcast.

After broadcasting successive air-raid warnings — with the wail of sirens plainly audible — the Warsaw radio appealed for all railway workers to report immediately to repair damaged tracks around the capital.

Refugees pouring into the city from the west were told to report at relief headquarters.

A chorus of mixed voices then sang "we will all, men and women, young and old, fight for Warsaw until death."

Berlin — (P) — Germany's 1914 eastern frontier was re-established today by Adolf Hitler in a decree issued while Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering was assuring Germans that Britain could not defeat them either by military or economic means.

With the German army declaring its columns were at Warsaw's gates and that Polish troops were retreating east of the Vistula, Hitler indicated that although still larger parts of Poland soon will be in his hands he intends to annex no more Polish territory than was in the old German empire.

Re-establishment of the frontier brought not only Danzig and Poznan (the Polish corridor) back into the reich but also Upper Silesia and parts of East and West Prussia which were assigned Poland in the World War settlement.

Hitler's decree re-established civil authority in this territory, except for a small stretch in Silesia, superseding the military which conquered it after the German invasion started Sept. 1.

Field Marshal Goering, speaking to munitions workers at Tegel, a Berlin suburb, in a speech that was broadcast to the nation assured Germans that "in this matter, east we cannot be blockaded" and intimated soviet Russia was ready to supply the reich with needed raw materials.

He said Yugoslavia and Rumania also were keeping their frontiers open for Germany.

The high command issued two communiques but nothing was said concerning progress in entering Warsaw.

It was announced officially that three French observation planes had been shot down by Germans while scouting along the western front. One British plane was reported shot down in the same region.

A fourth French craft was said to have landed at a German airfield and its three occupants seized.

An unexplained alarm, however, was raised in Berlin before dawn today while the capital waited expectantly for final word that Warsaw had fallen to the German army.

Berlin was jubilant over the supreme high command announcement that a German vanguard of Turn to page 2 col. 2

Buying Subsidies After Advances Throughout Week

Steel, Shipbuilding and Shipping Stocks Still Rising

New York — (P) — The week's buying spurge in securities and commodities subsided today, although it continued in substantial volume in some directions, particularly in steel, shipbuilding and shipping stocks, and in hides and rubber futures.

The stock market finished with a number of issues up $1 to $3 a share, while some fell back modestly as traders lightened their holdings at the weekend. Trading for the two-hour session in the stock exchange approximated 1,500,000 shares.

Advances of $2 to $3 a share were registered at the close in Bethlehem Steel, International Mercantile Marine, N. Y. Dock, United Fruit Electric Boat and Bush territory. Issues up $1 or more included U. S. Steel, Textile Corp., DuPont and N. Y. Shipbuilding. There were small net losses in Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, and Anacosta.

In Chicago, grains generally, and hogs were somewhat lower, although lard pointed upward again.

In New York, cotton futures lost $1.50 to $1.90 a bale, and raw sugar was definitely backward, after more than a week of sharp advances.

Final prices were down .07 to .15 of a cent a pound.

Rubber futures, however, shot up as much as 2 cents a pound, and raw hides and wool gained around 1 of a cent. Tin advanced 5 to 7 cents.

In the bond market, pressure against United States government issues was resumed, and prices receded moderately.

Berg Will be Taken To Kenosha to Face Additional Charges

Kenosha — (P) — County Judge R. V. Baker yesterday granted a writ requiring state prison officials to deliver Ernest Berg, 42, of Milwaukee, to Kenosha county authorities for trial here Sept. 12 on charges of burglary and assault with intent to murder.

The charges are based on the attempted holdup Aug. 21 of a Kenosha county filling station, in which Berg's stepson, George Mardell, was killed by the station policeman.

Berg, a former Milwaukee policeman, was sentenced in Milwaukee Aug. 29 to the state prison for burglary and assault and robbery. After the Kenosha prosecution he would be returned to serve the remainder of his sentence.

British Newspapers Believe Reich Plans Early Peace Proposal

London — (P) — The British press discussed possibilities of a German peace proposal today with unusual unanimity and declared unanimously the British-French war on Germany "will cease only with the overthrow of Hitler and the restitution of all Polish lands and rights."

"Nazi leaders are basing their policy, and indeed their war strategy, on the belief that if they can overrun Poland, they may conclude the conflict by inviting us to accept that situation and promising once again that they will make no further acts of aggression," the Daily Mail said.

Meanwhile, Great Britain intensified her naval offensive and disclosed another aerial propaganda raid aimed at disrupting Germany's internal economic and political structure. At the same time, she continued to get troops ready to reinforce the steady French drive on Germany's western front.

A posse including more than 40 Cochran CCC youths is assisting Buffalo county Sheriff Henry Rhymer and deputies in combing the area.

George Brooks of La Crosse left the scene last night with his bloodhounds after the trail, picked up in the woods where Miss Beck had laid down, was lost on a dusty road. Miss Beck's father died two weeks ago.

Roosevelt Is in No Hurry to Call Congressional Session

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican leader of the senate, gathered from a telephone conversation with President Roosevelt that congress might be called into session Sept. 18. The most direct word here, however, is that Mr. Roosevelt is in no hurry, and if the call is to be for 10 days hence, it will come rather reluctantly.

Raymond Clapper

Officially, the reason given for delay is that Mr. Roosevelt is having the statutes scrutinized for years back, to ascertain what powers he may already possess to deal with neutrality conditions. When he took office in 1933, he closed the banks under the old 1917 trading with the enemy act which never had been repealed. Only careful search of the statute books for years back will reveal the extent of powers which have rested unused during several administrations. Until this search is completed, the official explanation goes, there is no point in bringing congress back.

Unofficially, however, other reasons suggest themselves. First, it is only natural that the president should wish to delay as long as possible in providing his critics with a world-wide sounding board. Senator Borah may speak his mind from his summer retreat at Poland Springs, Me., but he can attract only mild attention there. However, let congress be called back and let Senator Borah rise in the senate and speak his piece, and not only does the utterance stamp itself upon this country but it is broadcast abroad, hailed in Germany as evidence of important division in the United States.

Several other senators now on their own home grounds, are making speeches critical of Mr. Roosevelt's attitude but they attract only local attention. Yet, staged in the senate forum, they become of world-wide interest. I think some in the administration feel that such speeches would have effects, encouraging upon German morale, discouraging upon British and French morale. There is some desire not to thus affect morale across the Atlantic any earlier than is necessary. Mr. Roosevelt wants, no doubt, to avoid even the appearance of American disunity as long as possible.

Time Tends To Tell Opinion Of Public

Second, there also is the thought here that delay in calling congress into session would tend to minimize the amount of hostile debate. The longer the present situation continues, the more effect public opinion will have upon senators and representatives now mostly back in their home states. The administration is counting upon the overwhelming feeling that Hitler is the guilty party to have its effect through the force of public sentiment, in diminishing the strength of those opposed to repealing the arms embargo.

The longer senators and representatives are allowed to remain among their constituents, the more force this public sentiment will have upon them. That is the reasoning here. Give public sentiment plenty of time to tell.

Third, events abroad are considered likely to play in favor of the administration during the next few weeks. Hitler's conquest of Poland, even though generally discounted in advance, still is bound to increase anxiety for the fate of Great Britain and France. Repetitions of affairs such as the Athenia sinking would increase American sympathy for the allies. Fighting on the western front will, as time goes on, make it increasingly clear that this is to be a war of attrition, thereby emphasizing anew the importance of releasing American supplies to the British and French, and further undermining opposition to repeal of the embargo.

While it is probable that Mr. Roosevelt could even now force action through congress, it is advantageous to his position to have it come with as small a display of opposition as is possible.

Administration Will Know Its Mind Better Later
Fourth, there are practical reasons why the neutrality act should operate for a brief time in order that time may be had to observe its workings, to discover any unsuspected bugs in the act, to form a better judgment as to the practicability and value of the numerous restrictions in it, to note defects in other cushioning machinery that might need legislative attention, and perhaps to suggest anti-profiteering measures.

The administration will know its own mind about such matters a few weeks hence better than it can now. These are some of the real factors that throw their weight against any hurried calling of congress. That will not please those who are suspicious of Mr. Roosevelt, nor those who wish to take advantage of the congressional sounding board, and he must expect steadily rising demand from them that he not try to run the show alone here but call congress immediately.

"Help me WITH MY HOMEWORK, Mother"

HE isn't dull or lazy. But he is handicapped by poor lighting in his home. It's almost as if he wore smoked glasses, to study!

Don't let your child strain his eyes! If he holds his book noticeably closer than 14 inches, he needs better light, and possibly glasses. Nearly one-fourth of all grade children suffer from damaged eyesight. Science now reveals that much of this may be avoided.

Check your home, by these important lighting rules.

Lighting rules easy to follow

1. Use lamp bulbs of the correct wattage. The minimum is 40-watt MAZDA lamps for 3 socket lamps, 60-watt for 2 socket lamps, 100-watt for single socket lamps.
2. Have all lamp bulbs shaded. For portables, a shade light in color, wide in spread, and open at the top.
3. Never read in glaring light, or in your own shadow.
4. Always use lamp bulbs of reputable make. Inferior ones burn out and blacken quickly.

Roosevelt Gained Experience From World War Post

Makes Real Leader, Strategist in Time of Conflict—Lawrence

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The first week of the European war has witnessed a remarkable thing in Washington—the presence in the White House as commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the only man who served as a high official in our government at the outbreak of the first European war.

All the high admirals of the army and navy have long since retired, all the civilians who occupied strategic posts in the war agencies have passed out of official life, and Franklin Roosevelt alone remains to issue orders and commands to avoid the pitfalls such as developed in a delicate period in American history in which he had a ringside seat, actually participating in the inside councils of the government.

Mr. Roosevelt was a trusted adviser of the late President Wilson.

As assistant secretary of our navy, he spent a good deal of his time in London in direct contact with the British admiralty. There is a story going the rounds that Mr. Wilson could not understand why the British navy had not drawn nets or built other barriers to prevent the German submarines from coming through the English channel, and that it fell to the lot of Franklin Roosevelt to contact the British navy, through whom the suggestion was ultimately put into effect.

Alert Person

Mr. Roosevelt was a young man in the war days of 1914 to 1918, but he was an alert person with a quick grasp of military and naval affairs. Those of us among the correspondents who used to visit the navy department where he and the late Louis Howe held forth found him as much a part of the navy as if he were a commissioned officer.

The president's love of navy strategy led him to attend the naval maneuvers in the Caribbean held by the United States navy early this spring. He was on board a warship and followed every detail of the war games with the same interest that any high naval officer might display. When he returned, he talked enthusiastically to his friends of the excellent condition of the American navy and in particular of the changed character of naval warfare, now that the scouting plane has been introduced as an auxiliary to the fleet.

Mr. Roosevelt became familiar during the war with the hundred

HEAD CAST OF 'IN NAME ONLY'

Has a wife the right to compel her husband to remain married to her when neither loves the other? This question is a highlight entertainingly developed in "In Name Only," with the smash starring trio, Carole Lombard, Cary Grant and Kay Francis. The picture starts an engagement at the Rio Theater tomorrow.

Co-featured on the same program is "Torchy Plays With Dynamite" with Jane Wyman, Allen Jenkins and Tom Kennedy.

and one problems of shipping and submarine raiding. He knew also what the naval intelligence units were reporting about espionage and counter-espionage, and of the attempts to sabotage American factories and shipyards. It took him no time at all this last week to get the various police agencies of the federal government into active operation.

The president knows the diplomatic side of the emergency, too, and the limitless red tape that sometimes stops official action when it should go ahead without hesitation. He knows how to cut red tape and get things done, and one evidence of his readiness to act came in his issuance of the "limited emergency" proclamation this week which enabled the army and navy defenses to be strengthened and funds provided at once. Likewise he was careful to explain to the press just what the technicalities were that required such a step.

Better Qualified

Mr. Roosevelt is far better qualified to take care of American interests, especially with the idea of keeping us out of war, than was Mr. Wilson at the outbreak of hostilities in Europe in 1914. Submarine warfare was then new, airplanes were new in combat, and the whole war situation came so suddenly as to give the Washington government little time to prepare. Even the evacuation of Americans from Europe is being arranged this time with far less confusion than was inevitable in the abrupt turn of events in August, 1914.

There is only one fly in the ointment. Republicans suspect that Mr. Roosevelt wants to be nominated and elected for a third term, and that the war situation may be used to further that ambition. American tradition is against a third term unless a real emergency exists. In 1918, a national election was held when America was still neutral. In 1864, a national election was held in the midst of the war between the states. There will be a national election in 1940, irrespective of whether America is or is not in the war, because it is an American desire to hold to democracy, regardless of the pressure of war.

If Mr. Roosevelt were to renounce all ambition and make it clear once and for all that he does not intend to run for reelection, it would make his record of these last few days and the record of the days to come in the troubled times ahead a magnificent one. For, in war, Mr. Roosevelt is a real leader, an experienced strategist and an excellent commander-in-chief of the big army and navy that must patrol our coasts and protect our possessions.

Old Grange Table and Records are Kept in Dwelling at Royalton

Royalton — R. J. Van Adestine has in his home in Little Wolf a table that belonged to the Grange in 1872 and some of the old record books and Grange implements of that early date. His father, the late Andy Van Adestine, was secretary of that first organization.

This Grange was called the "Little Wolf Grange No. 265" and its hall was just south of where the Little Wolf schoolhouse now stands. These records date back to 1872.

When the county poor house burned in early days the inmates were housed in the Grange hall for a short time and it was during this period May, 1885, that the Grange hall caught fire, it is thought from an overheated stove, and burned to the ground.

The inmates were then housed in tents until the present structure was completed. The hall never was rebuilt.

Some of the members of the first organization were: Isaac Anderson, Eliza Gibson, Roland Brush, Royal Green, James Carew, Michael Griffin, L. M. Collier, Isaac Hanna, Olive Collier, Henry Hanna, Melissa Collier, Mrs. Henry Hanna, James Craig, Arthur, George, Letitia, and Jane Lindsay, Mary Craig, Charles La Point, Mathias Dennis, James Micklejohn, Catherine Dennis, Jeanette Micklejohn, T. E. Gibson, Samuel Norton, Electa Norton, Edwin Moore, Eliza B. Richie, Felix Rossey, Walter Scott, Daniel Smith, Isaac Stevens, Thomas Vaughn, Sarah Vaughn, Ellen Vaughn, William Wood.

Pamona Grange will meet at Crystal Lake Thursday evening.

Lloyd M. Schindler, Appleton, will be in charge of the PWA area engineer-inspector office in Appleton after Sept. 15, according to a notice received by W. N. Parkinson, who is in charge of the office in city hall. Parkinson will return to Milwaukee Tuesday while his assistant, Ray Voelker, will be transferred to the Green Bay PWA office.

SHALL IT BE CHIVALRY OR FRIGHTFULNESS?

Torpedoing the Athenia was in violation of international law. A passenger boat at sea may not be sunk without warning and the chance to put away in life boats. A long argument over this very proposition preceded America's entry into World War No. 1.

Berlin immediately denied its responsibility for the Athenia's sinking. It declared it had no U-boat in that vicinity and moreover had directed its sea commanders to abide by the rules of international law. Two days later it issued another and warmer denial.

But the evidence is against it, not the evidence of passengers who claim to have seen a torpedo approaching because any curved wave may be mistaken, but the announcement of Captain Cooke that he has a score of eye witnesses to the fact that the submarine arose to the surface after the torpedoing and shelled the Athenia apparently with the purpose of shooting away its wireless.

Meanwhile the British freighter Olivegrove, sunk off the coast of Ireland, reported that the U-boat commander not only first ordered all hands to abandon ship and then fired his torpedo but saw to it that the survivors had the correct compass reckonings to land and even added the firing of two red rockets to enable an American vessel on the horizon to more easily sight and pick up the survivors.

If the instances of the Athenia and Olivegrove are added together along with a considerable array of other facts plus the outstanding importance to Berlin of going softly on its western front since its then court peace, you have something left besides examples of different personalities in the war and how they may influence its course. But individuals and their influence upon public opinion are still of far-reaching importance.

The commander who sank the Athenia may have been permeated with the old idea of frightfulness and he may have been just a jittery nervous wreck; but the commander who sank the Olivegrove, courteous, careful and gentlemanly to the last, was by far the better soldier, competent to accomplish much more for his country.

The expectation is that Poland must fall to Hitler. It could hardly be otherwise unless help can reach the Warsaw battlers before the unequal odds finally wear them down.

But when Poland is subdued the real problem of this war will arise. Hitler, through Mussolini, will sue for peace with France and England. And whether or not he obtains his heart's desire may depend upon how high the thermometer of war rage has risen in the democracies by that time.

There isn't anything in the world that will shoot that thermometer up like frightfulness, and there is hardly anything that will make it drop like chivalry.

MILITARY TRAINING AT THE UNIVERSITY

Perhaps it is time for the people of Wisconsin to march on the capital. Why not clutter up the highways and raise pandemonium before all our rights are lost? Or shall we calmly submit to Russian serfdom?

Have Wisconsin people missed the fact that the senate committee unanimously favored the White proposal making students in the Freshman and Sophomore classes at the university take military training? Our boys are thus to be fashioned into ogres, brutes and hellions?

Where is the spirit of Bunker Hill, Gettysburg and Chateau Thierry? Haven't we any fighting blood left or have all the red corpuscles turned white?

If this bill becomes law the young men at the university will be forced to learn how to stake a camp, set a tent, prepare and protect food, use first aid, pack 40 pounds of belongings snugly, clean and fire a gun and maintain themselves in healthy condition.

In time there may be a little cavalry unit and they will have to accept training along veterinarian lines and become instructed in the care and handling of animals. They may even be ordered to use a currycomb. Will there be no end to their shame and disgrace?

But then there are the marches, the drilling, the hikes out into the country 10 or 15 miles, the bivouac and sleeping on the ground with nothing under you but a blanket. This degradation will overrun our cup of misery.

And if they keep up this training business they'll have stooped shoulders straightened up, sunken chests turned out and dull eyes gleaming with life.

Up Brisbane Hall! Trot out the ghost of Victor Berger and the thrilling voice of Dan Hoan! Save us from these Hitler! Preserve our innate right to be fools!

POLAND AND THE EFFECT OF REPRESSION

Five hundred years ago Poland was the most advanced, enlightened and powerful nation in Eastern Europe.

But it fell. And in the story of that fall, and its consequences, is embodied more sadness than can be produced by a world war.

The dominant cause of Poland's downfall was dissension among its own leaders. Their bitterness to get even with one another surmounted their natural reluctance to come under the hand of an alien. Bribery and corruption ruled the state.

But this wound in Poland's side was induced by the creation of an electoral commonwealth with a lack of any middle class and the apparent inability to prevent neighbors from bribing members of the parliament and thus buying, so to speak, an interest in the chosen monarch.

Although, Russia, Prussia and Austria hesitated to obliterate Poland at once their initial slicing of it in 1772 hastened the necessity of finishing the process a generation later.

And when the Poles found themselves actually aliens they realized with high intensity the grievous error of their constant quarrels among themselves and supported revolutionary movements worthy of the admiration of the world in the victories obtained, the heroism displayed and the tigerish resistance offered to the last, even though they fell short of final success.

The treatment of the Poles by their three captors was markedly different. Under Russia there was almost complete suppression. At times they were even denied the privilege of owning land. Poverty was their lot, and with it enforced ignorance.

At times Prussia indicated a somewhat liberal attitude. But under the Kaiser who now resides at Doorn a harsh policy was inaugurated.

But Austria was the kindly and liberal one, Austria whom the peace negotiators tore to pieces.

The apparent purpose of Prussia and Russia was to keep the Poles in a state of vassalage. In order to accomplish this end two courses must be pursued: first, education must be hampered and restricted and, where possible, denied, and second, they must be studiously treated as an inferior people and set apart, poverty stricken and in rags.

The battle of the Poles for 125 years against these tremendous odds is certainly one of the most magnificent the gallant pages of history reveal. To have nothing, to be cursed and pushed off the sidewalks, to be denied the simplest rights, privileges and advantages, and yet to push stoically onward, working, praying, hoping—if all this does not indicate a spark of divinity added to the human elements, what does?

Nor should the history of the Polish race be lost upon their oppressors. An aim that cannot be accomplished after five generations of repression and suppression is likely never to result in anything beneficial to those who planned it.

Poland is not the only nation nor the Poles the only people who bear testimony to the fact that energy and intelligence and manly virtues cannot be torn out of the fibres where nature has placed them so long as life endures.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND OUR ARMED FORCES

The public should give whole-hearted approval to the orders of President Roosevelt strengthening all our armed forces.

For a nation like ours to remain standing idly at the ground like the figure in Markham's famous "Man with the Hoe" would be a heavy reflection upon our mental processes and the ability of a democracy to act cautiously and peacefully, and to prepare at the same time a supply of weapons in an angry, weaponed world.

It is a happy circumstance to be able to note also that in this polishing up our armor we are acting in diametrically the opposite way we acted in 1914. Then we assumed that to prepare indicated hostility and would get us into war. By not preparing we got into war with more certainty.

Now we shall prepare for any eventuality and, remembering that the people were greatly misled on another occasion and the necessity of mixing salt and other ingredients into the stories told them, we shall be prepared for propaganda too and in that very fact be more unlikely to invite attack or incitement from any of the belligerents.

Woodrow Wilson said there was such a thing as a nation "being too proud to fight." That statement didn't mix very well with the other elements loose in the world at that time.

But a nation that is armed and prepared and still maintains its balance has more reason for pride in the fact that it doesn't have to fight to preserve its plain rights.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Scene: an elevator in the RCA building. Entered a frightened woman. To the elevator operator she said: "Is this all local?" "No, ma'am. This is an express to the 65th floor. What floor do you want?" "I want the 65th floor, but I don't want to go on any express elevator. I want to go one floor at a time." "I'm sorry, lady, but this is the only elevator that goes to the 65th floor, and we don't make any stops until we get there." The woman was in a quandary. "Well, then, I'll ride with you if you promise to go very slowly." "Madam, this elevator has only one speed. There's nothing I can do about it. All aboard." The lady stepped timidly to the back of the car, placed her hands over her eyes and said, resignedly: "There's no way out, I guess; so I'll take my life in my hands." And up we went; and the lady, to the best of my knowledge and belief, is still living.

Fatal accidents in skyscraper elevators are almost non-existent. Millions of people shoot up and down in them annually without any untoward accident. Occasionally a car may get caught between floors or meet with some accident that is embarrassing, but to drop unchecked to the bottom of the shaft, or shoot out of the top of it—the two things of which elevator riders are most conscious—is next to impossible.

A much greater peril waits for him who travels at elevator speed in an automobile along a highway. Anything can happen—collision, blow-out, broken steering knuckle, or even such a thing as catching cold from the breeze.

This fear of science's contributions to modern living is the more notable because it grips people of intelligence fully as much as persons of limited learning. Thousands of people trudge wearily up subway stairs, climbing as many as 80 steps, because they are afraid to ride on escalators. How much greater would be their alarm if they could look at their hearts and watch how they labor under the strain of such a climb! The worst that could happen if an escalator went haywire would be for the citizens to fall down and go boom. The worst that could happen to an overtaken heart would be for it to stop beating.

Lieut. William J. Drury, who commanded Chicago's "Hoodlum Squad" during the chaotic days of crime when Al Capone sat on the Chicago throne, thinks New York police ought to be congratulated for their success in keeping the World's Fair free from crime. The Chicago police officer commented thus after he had covered the Fair grounds and studied the police work.

During the two years of the Century of Progress exposition, Chicago, he said, the police made only about 15 arrests. "Even Al Capone's mob couldn't get to first base with us on the Century of Progress grounds," Lieut. Drury said. "The minute we saw a hoodlum we gave him the rush act and got him out of circulation. 'New York's Fair is a bigger proposition. Word has been passed around among the criminals that the Fair is well policed, so they keep away. Our big job in Chicago was to keep hoodlums from 'muscling in' on legitimate concessionaires. That doesn't appear to be any problem here."

The Chicago police officer said that organized crime is "a thing of the past" in his city. "Repeat sounded the death knell of mobsters. I can't name a single outstanding racketeer in Chicago. Only a few minor gangs remain in existence, and they're easy to handle." He predicted that Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, now No. 1 on the New York list of "wanted men," will be turned up by one of his own mob. "Every thief is out for himself," the Chicago authority on criminals said, "and with $30,000 on Lepke's head, one of his pals is sure to turn him in."

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Saturday, September 7, 1929

Arnold Schultz was elected president of the PTA of Badger school in District No. 8 at the first fall meeting the previous evening. Other officers were M. McCoy, vice president, and Mrs. John Taylor, secretary and treasurer.

Miss Borden Kline, Ind., new recreation director of the Appleton Woman's club, was expected the following week.

The Green Bay Packers expected one of their strongest squads in history for that fall's professional campaign. Kotal, former Lawrence player, was one of the backs.

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Sept. 12, 1914

Work was scheduled to start the next week on the re-laying of street car tracks on Oneida street, according to Superintendent A. K. Ellis. Gerald Nye was an Appleton visitor that day. Fred Pym and Dan McCarthy, who were playing with "That Printer of Uddell's," were guests of Mrs. P. R. Rolfe, Sherman Place.

Walther Kitzner, kapellmeister and pianist of the Berlin orchestra, announced the opening of a studio at 438 So. State street.

Edgar Walter entertained a party of friends at his home on State street. Those present were Charles Young, Henry Walter, Peter Sinners, Henry Rossmessl, and Arthur Rossmessl.

Sample of 1914 humor as carried in the Appleton Crescent:

"I see your husband is becoming a tangoist." "Oh, no. He walks that way because he ran a tack into his foot night before last."

Opinions of Others

DOWNING OF DOWNING STREET

At a time when the attention of the English-speaking world is fixed on 10 Downing street and the gentleman who goes in and out of it with a famous umbrella, a Dublin paper, the Evening Herald, reminds that the street is named for a Harvard man. Few members of the Harvard club will remember him in the life. We fear, for Sir George Downing died in 1644. He was, in fact, Harvard alumnus No. 2, one of the four members of the class of 1642, whose yell escapes us. His mother was a sister of Gov. John Winthrop. She and her family joined the Massachusetts colony in 1638, when George Downing was 14. Soon after his graduation from Harvard he went to the West Indies as a preacher and instructor of English seamen. Returning to England he became first an army chaplain and next scout-master-general of Cromwell's forces in Scotland. But he made his peace with Charles II in 1660 and was knighted. From that time on he was busy in diplomatic posts and, to be near his work, built the houses just off Whitehall which were the origin of the street that bears his name.

It may be of interest in New Haven and Princeton to learn that the Encyclopedia Britannica, while paying tribute to Downing's talents, remarks that his instructor was "marked by treachery, servility, and ingratitude" in making up with Charles II. He renounced the principles he had inhaled in New England, a region where later the term "a George Downing" was applied to a man who was false to his trust. It is sad to know such things about one of the earliest products of a budding college, but cheering to know that his spirit does not inhabit No. 10 at the present hour.—New York Sun.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—It is evident already that some surprises are in store for members of Congress and the public when they begin looking behind the scenes into the pay-as-you-go scheme of social security adopted this past session.

To a lot of people it looked like the answer to the treasury's prayer to be able to increase benefits and lower taxes.

Congress did exactly that. But what has happened is that the cake is being eaten now and a future generation of congressmen and taxpayers will have to decide how much cake is to be eaten in the future.

Under the old plan for social security, the monthly benefits did not start until 1942. Now they start January 1. Moreover, a lot of elderly people who couldn't expect anything out of it before are going to get a share under the new system. They will get more than they paid in.

The reason for this is that the system of financing has been changed. The plan for a big reserve has been abandoned. Only a small emergency reserve will be built up. That means present collections from the payroll tax will more than carry the present load for two or three years.

Instead of the increase in taxes due this year, the increase has been postponed three years. And the benefits, have been increased. More old people will get monthly pensions than could have expected them before. Other old people who could have expected small pensions will get larger ones.

Don't Get Alarmed
Nobody should be deceived about the thing. The extra money that is being paid out now will have to be made up later by taxes of some kind. The present tax of one per cent on employee and one per cent on employer will carry through to about 1943. Then more old people will be entitled to dividends than are able to get them now.

The present schedule of taxes then will be increased, first to two per cent, finally to three per cent. In fact, the payroll taxes will take care of the whole load until 1954 if the rates are left as in the newly-revised law. In 1954 either the social security benefits that people had been looking forward to will be cut down or Congress will have to appropriate directly from the Treasury. The latter course is expected.

It would not surprise some of the inner circle if Congress never did allow the tax to go to its limit of three per cent on employer and three per cent on employee. Some quietly expect that the threat of such a load of payroll taxes will compel Congress to raise the money from general income or other taxes. Then will begin a squawk from another section. A lot of people such as farmers, farm laborers, small store owners and professional people are not covered by the social security retirement plan. Yet in time Congress will begin to have to tax them along with the rest of us to pay those who are covered. And there will arise lobbies and more lobbies to correct that. And more and more people will get old age retirement.

There is no reason for becoming panicky about it. It will cost lots of money—three to five billion dollars a year in time. But it won't reach that level until another generation of congressmen comes up to deal with it. Then it will be their headache.

A Strange Situation
Meantime a queer situation arises out of the scheme to distribute the pensions where they will do the most good. Under the new law a married man retiring at 65 gets additional money for his wife as soon as she reaches 65. Still more is allowed for dependent children.

For instance, a single man retiring at 65 after paying taxes for five years will get $31.50 a month if his average earnings have been $150 a month. A married man whose wife is also 65 will get $47.25 in the same wage bracket. Yet they both pay the same social security tax. No matter how you look at it, it is a tax on bachelorhood.

And another thing. The congressmen have put up barriers against young women marrying old men to get pensions. Experience with war pensions taught them to do that. Now a widow can't get her husband's pension until she, too, is 65.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

When you give before a notary public to have a paper attested from now on, you'd better not cling to any idea that it's all a wrist motion. Even if the oath is mumbled and the notary public doesn't even look up from the horse-race results while putting his stamp on it, it's binding. A New York court just ruled so, and you could knock a lot of us over with a feather.

A fellow charged with perjury because he got a pistol permit on a notarized statement that he had never been arrested had his case dismissed by a Brooklyn judge on the ground the notary public couldn't recall having gone all through the formal oath. The higher court rules that, all hair-splitting aside, even if the notary is tongue-tied and the customer just trying to be slippery, the notarized paper means what it ought to mean.

"Once upon a time there was a reason for formalism," says the court, "but today it doesn't make sense." Imagine the courts getting down to earth where they can talk of common sense.

Under the CAPITOL DOME
BY JOHN WINGAARD
Madison—It would doubtless surprise John Burnham, the editor of the Waupaca county Post, to hear that the fair Republicanism in the capitol hold him partly responsible for the defeat of one of the major Heil reorganization bills, the measure to reorganize the public service commission.

Yet that is the fact, and it is a further fact that certain administration men in high office are so angered at the situation that they may yet resort to legal methods to clear up what is at best an unusual chain of circumstances.

On Sunday August 19 Governor Heil made his second appearance in Waupaca county this year, to speak at the Scandinavia Free Fair. He came without a manuscript, as usual, and he discussed state affairs.

Burnham attended the fair as a representative of his paper, and also as the local correspondent of a news service. In the latter capacity he is alleged to have filed an account of the governor's address, including a quotation attributed to the governor that some members of the legislature are "just plain lazy."

PRIMA DONNAS
That quotation was published in a Milwaukee newspaper next day, and read by both the governor and several members of the legislature. Neither liked it. Sensitive legislators, including a couple of Democrats, promptly rose in the assembly to criticize the governor for his alleged reference to them. Heil, reading the passage, did a little telephoning, and then issued a formal denial that he had made the statement which the news story said he made.

He had not referred to members of the legislature, said Heil, who he used the words "plain lazy." He was talking about some state employees who had grown too accustomed to the protection of the civil service law, and who had grown lazy as a consequence.

But the damage had been done, apparently, in the assembly, where shortly afterward the offending legislators who had made the speeches in self-defense started bolting Heil's bills. Not long after a measure desired by the whole administration, the public service commission bill, was killed by a close vote. It is claimed that at least a couple of the opposing votes were cast out of resentment toward Heil's alleged aspersions on the legislature.

As this is written the executive office is discussing possible recourse against Burnham, who is held responsible for the whole affair. It is expected that a demand for a retraction will be made.

(Note: The Post-Crescent, which sent its own correspondent, Pete Welch, to cover the fair and Heil's speech, did not receive the quotation which the Waupaca man attributed to the governor.)
WELFARE JOBS
If Governor Heil appoints the people he is reportedly planning to appoint to the executive jobs in the new public welfare department, there may be some repercussions from those professional welfare workers who had such an important hand in drafting the new welfare reorganization act. It is no secret among informed legislative observers that the reorganization bill is the product of the

Personal Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

CEREALS AND BAD TEETH
"It is probable," says Edward Mellanby, distinguished authority on nutrition and secretary of the Medical Research Council in England, "that cereals also play a part in inducing the defective formation of the epithelium (of the gums) and the tendency to pyorrhea, just as they do in the case of dental structure and caries (cavity, decay)."

Many years of careful scientific investigation of this important question by May Mellanby, Edward Mellanby and their associates have brought enough evidence to convince the majority of well informed physicians and dentists too large a preponderance of cereals or cereal products in the diet favors formation of teeth of poor structure (under-developed) with rough, dull thin enamel, and these teeth are notably susceptible to caries.

Mellanby believes the cereals contain an anti-calcifying agent, which they have called "toxamin," and this agent interferes with the normal assimilation, utilization and retention in the tooth structure of calcium and phosphorus. The effect of the "toxamin" in cereals may be readily neutralized or compensated or nullified by supplying sufficient vitamin D in the daily diet or intake, vitamin D in any form at all.

It has been shown that active caries or decay of the teeth in children may be arrested, and spontaneous healing of some cavities brought about, by giving the children a diet rich in vitamin D, calcium and phosphorus. Mellanby asserts that if cereals are eliminated from the diet decay of the teeth is virtually stopped. He remarks that although such a diet may contain no bread, porridge or other cereals, it includes enough carbohydrate material for the growing, active child's needs, in the shape of plenty of milk (lactose, milk sugar), jam (levulose or fructose—fruit sugar), with added sucrose—beet or cane sugar, soluble sugar syrup, molasses or treacle, honey, marmalade, jelly, potatoes and other vegetables. Incidentally it was first noticed (Boyd and Drain) in this country that cavities in the teeth of children with diabetes healed spontaneously when the children were given a diet excluding cereals and including plenty of vitamin D and the high calcium-phosphorus foods.

Altho Mellanby singles out oatmeal as the representative "toxamin"-bearing cereal (perhaps because oatmeal is the popular porridge in England) he states that the anti-calcifying effect of oatmeal may be removed by boiling the cereal for half an hour in 1 to 2 per cent hydrochloric acid and then neutralizing or by adding some fish liver oil or concentrate; or by irradiating the oatmeal with ultraviolet light; or by fortifying the oatmeal with calcium salts; or by adding to the oatmeal synthetic vitamin D, or even by irradiating the animal or child with ultraviolet in sunlight or professionalized social workers group, and there is more than a suspicion that Aubrey Williams, now in Washington, but who keeps important connections in Wisconsin, had a big hand in its contents. Doubtless the Williams circle, which is the professional welfare workers' group, will expect experienced administrators in the new department. But there are plentiful reports that most of the jobs have already been assigned, and that the recruits will be principally from Republican party friends of the chief executive.

To our careless correspondents: If you fail to inclose a stamped address envelope, the chance of getting a reply is slim. If you sign your letter with anything else than your name, Dr. Brady pretends you never wrote at all.

Have Some Peanuts
Delighted to see your recommendation of peanuts as a good staple food. Took me five years to learn that peanuts make a real substitute for meat, milk and eggs any time. But roasted they are poison to many persons, whereas any one can eat a ton of them raw. Try raw peanuts and you will enjoy a treat. E. S. W.

Answer—Thank you Maybe some of our readers will try 'em raw and let us know. I like 'em roasted. Peanuts yield 160 calories per ounce, compared with sirloin steak which yields about 68 calories to the ounce. Peanuts are rich in calcium and phosphorus, and contain fair amounts of vitamin A and vitamin B-complex. Peanuts are good food for growth in animal or man. Peanuts are not a delicacy or a mere fad, but a wholesome, nourishing, economical food for child and adult.

Raw But Good
Opinion regarding use of raw sugar in place of refined white sugar. Friend says a man who works in sugar refinery is horrified at the idea of eating raw sugar, as it is squeezed from the cane under the bare feet of sweating negroes (M. J. B.).
Answer The friend or her friend has a vivid imagination. Of course sugar is refined wholly by machinery without human touch from cane to table. If you like raw sugar it is a wholesome food, containing more of the mineral matter of the cane than refined sugar does. The mineral content of raw sugar is no reason for preferring it to refined white sugar, for the difference is insignificant in respect to the amount of mineral matter the body requires daily—and gets in vegetables, milk, cheese, greens particularly.
Quinine
Please give me all the information you can concerning the use of quinine as a home remedy. We have recently moved south and we hear there is some malaria in this district. (Mrs. E. H. C.)
Answer—Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for monograph "Quinine in Modern Medicine."
Fee
Would appreciate your suggestion or recommendation of a competent physician specializing in the treatment of diabetes—one whose fee is moderate enough for an ordinary wage earner. (P. B.)
Answer—On request I am glad to recommend a good physician, or a specialist, if I know of one in the community. But I can give no information concerning a doctor's fee.

Dr. Culver Named Council Head for Religion Courses

Mrs. Mary Denyes to Direct Weekly School Of Religion

Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor of the First Methodist church, was elected president of the Appleton council of Religious Education at the annual meeting last night at the Appleton Y. M. C. A. He replaces the Rev. John B. Hanna, pastor of the First Congregational church.

Mrs. H. K. Pratt was elected vice president replacing the Rev. Mr. Culver, and Homer Gebhardt, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was reelected secretary and treasurer.

The council decided to continue the weekly school of religion and again named Mrs. Mary Denyes as director. Mrs. Denyes, now in Washington, D. C., is expected to return to Appleton next week.

The school will be conducted on a 24-week basis as it was last year to provide religious education for children of the lower grades. E. W. Whiting again was named chairman of the committee to seek public support.

The budget for the school was approved as offered by the finance committee composed of George Werner, chairman, the Rev. G. H. Blum and Whiting.

A report on the daily vacation Bible school, conducted this summer was submitted. The council also voted to investigate a teachers' training course to prepare teachers for the school and for work in the churches.

Churches participating in the weekly school of religion are the First Congregational church, the Emmanuel Evangelical church, the St. John Evangelical church, the Memorial Presbyterian church, the First Methodist church, the All Saints Episcopal church, the Trinity Lutheran church and the First Baptist.

Hay, Grain Crops At County Asylum 'Good' This Year

Hay and grain crops this year at the Outagamie county asylum are good, but the potato crop prospects are poor, according to Thomas Flanagan, superintendent. About 250 tons of hay have been harvested and the oat and barley yield is about 4,800 bushels. Flanagan said the corn crop will be about 8,000 bushels.

Five acres of potatoes have been planted, but the yield is expected to be much smaller than last year's crop.

The vegetable garden fared well this summer. The yield includes 150 bushels of onions, 150 bushels of carrots, 100 bushels of beets and 200 bushels of rutabagas. There will be little squash this year and few pickles, however, Flanagan said. Last year about three truckloads of squash and fifteen barrels of pickles were raised.

The canning season is on at the asylum, and the storehouse is being filled with winter supplies. Canning is done in five and ten gallon jars, as one such jar is needed for a meal.

Barrows to Talk At Jaces Meeting

Bernie Heslton to Outline Lawrence College Grid Prospects

Dr. Thomas N. Barrows, president of Lawrence college, will talk on "City-College Relations" at a business meeting of the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce Monday evening at the Butte des Morts clubhouse.

Bernie Heslton, football coach at Lawrence, will outline the prospects for his grid squad this fall. The meeting will be preceded by a 6:30 dinner.

Monday's meeting will be the first of the fiscal year for the Jaces who discontinued meeting for the summer last June.

Plans for the development of a fire prevention project for the week of Oct. 8 to 14 will be discussed at the meeting. A committee will be named to promote the project, which will be sponsored nationally by the Jaces.

The committee in charge of the meeting includes Harold Aykens, director in charge; Roy McNell, chairman; and Clarence Schlaff, Harold Struebing, James Van Rooy and Harvey Sackett.

Pheasant Is Cause of Accident on Highway

A pheasant strutting its way across the road was the cause of an accident that brought injuries to two persons about 2:45 yesterday afternoon. Arnold Brautigam, 108 S. So the Manawa youth attempted to call his folks at Manawa but because of the damage caused by the storm here it was impossible to make connections. It is understood that Rollie tried four different times and on the last occasion the coast telephone operator even sent along her pleas in attempt to hurry the call through.

It was to no avail, however, and L. M. Lamkins, manager of the Manawa Telephone company, was as keenly disappointed as Rollie and his folks. "The storm would have to show up on Rollie's lucky day," he disquietedly remarked.

Most of German Fleet Is Safe, Goering Says

Berlin — Field Marshal General Herman Goering declared today that "Britain's attempt" to capture the German fleet Bremen "missed fire," but he added no details to clarify the mystery surrounding the $20,000,000 vessel.

The Bremen sailed from New York without passengers on the evening of Aug. 30.

Nothing had been heard of the ship until last Wednesday when German officials announced its arrival at an unidentified neutral port.

"... Thank God the greater part of the German fleet is already in German harbors," Goering said. "Britain's attempt to capture the Bremen missed fire."

said. He said he doubted whether "Britain really wants to fight."

"I felt strongly the desire to speak to you at this moment when I may discuss the tremendous events stirring us all," he said. "I purposely selected this factory. Between you, this immediate audience of workers" there stand forth those gigantic cannon barrels, which are striking terror to the enemy.

"Chancellor Hitler asked, nothing more than that a German city (Danzig) which didn't even belong to the opponent, be returned and that a road to the east be guaranteed to Germany." "Hitler's demand for a passageway across the Polish corridor to East Prussia."

"Goering asserted it was 'simply inconceivable' that these were not granted."

Ridicules Poles

"Germany was even ready to renounce sections wherein Germans were living," he said. "Yet the foe offered this because as he said, he alone could make such an offer. Yet Polish government declined."

"The Nazi field marshal then made fun of the Poles as a nation pretending to be a big power."

"But it was not Poland alone that offered resistance," he declared. "Behind it rose the shadow of a country which ever puts itself in the way of Germany"—(Britain).

The jeers of the audience greeted this reference to England.

"We violated no rights of Britain," he said. "We recognized her rights on the five seas. They should have had the decency to tell Poland 'Germany is right—you must fulfill her wish.'"

"A country which was built up on force dares speak of moral principles. There has been too much lying in world history, but what we experienced now beats everything we know."

"It is said that we are not fighting Germans, but the Nazi regime. But when the shooting starts, it is Germans who are hit. We know this old trick. The British are sitting on their treasures and won't let anybody else have them. They talk about morals—that too, after they swallowed many peoples."

French Claiming Most of Warndt Forest District

velop in this region for several days because of the difficult terrain and the necessity of keeping French tanks protected through the forested, hilly country.

French Advance

The French action rolled along the irregular left side of the giant inverted "V" which represents the Maginot line. That "V" thrusts toward Germany. The left side extends from the Luxembourg border to Lauterbourg, near the Rhine, but French penetration was greatest in the area between Luxembourg and Forbach, a distance of about 35 miles.

Dispatches have reported German civilians were leaving towns in the Moselle and the Saar river regions, including Saarbrücken, important river city of 130,000. The Saar region was returned to Germany in the plebiscite of January, 1935.

French staff communiques said the Germans were placing land mines before the French in order to check their advance.

As British troops moved up to assist the French, air forces of both nations directed artillery fire on the left flank, where the French were occupied in cleaning out small fortresses atop dominant hills.

Move Cautiously

Evidently the French were proceeding cautiously in this "fortress war," because they were moving always against unlocated, scattered pillboxes in "no man's land" between the Maginot and Siegfried lines.

The British fleet harrying the Kiel canal and both nations apparently fully ready for a long war, French leaders emphasized "Hitlerism must be destroyed" no matter what Poland's immediate fate is in the east.

Infantry patrols were supported by tanks and armored cars, and the mechanized forces were meeting their first real tests as they ran into the blasted area which had been mined by the Germans to cover their retreat.

Menasha Gridders Prepare for First Tilt With Oshkosh

Bluejays Engage in Opening Scrimmage of Football Season

Menasha — Menasha High school gridders held their first scrimmage of the 1939 season Friday night under the lights at Butte des Morts field. The scrimmage was held just one week before the first game for the Bluejays, which will be next Friday night at Oshkosh.

No attempt was made by Coach N. A. Calder to name either a first or a second team and players were shifted from one squad to the other. Chances are that the Bluejays again will have some powerful fullbacking. Norman Drexler performed at fullback on one squad and tore off several long gains before he injured his leg.

Blocking naturally was ragged on both sides and the scrimmage was confined chiefly to running plays and some punting. William Robinson did a good job at fullback on the other squad and when Drexler was injured Roland O'Brien, regular quarterback, went in at the fullback spot. Dempsey, a 226-pound transfer student and heaviest man on the squad, was not in the scrimmage last night. He received a cut over his eye in an earlier practice.

Two Lineups
Two lineups received most of the attention of the Bluejay coach. One had Gene Grode and Ray Wispich at ends, William Woodhead and Eugene Resch at tackles, Harold Funk and Glen Ohlrogge at guards and Kenneth Wolff at center. The backfield had Harold Block at quarterback, Richard Sheleski and Robert Nantke at halves and O'Brien at fullback.

The other lineup had Norman Michie and Gordon Wasinger at ends, Elmer Martell and Jack Noel at tackles, James DeLong and Robert Wideman at guards and Ray Michalkiewicz at center. William Schmilzer was at quarterback while the halfbacks were Armin Weber and Neal Baldauf. Robinson was the fullback.

After working with those two lineups intensively, Coach Calder started to substitute freely until all members of the squad had a chance to get some action.

Mr. Schlosser said school work was a week in advance due to a new plan whereby programs were ready for the students on the opening day. On Tuesday, programs were handed out and assignments were made.

A decrease of about twenty students was recorded in the grade school enrollment, 133 attending. A morning kindergarten is being held this year for children ranging in age from four to five years. Children from five to six years of age are attending kindergarten in the afternoon.

Appleton's Younger Set Wears 'Back-to-School' Togs for Season's Closing Junior Dance at Riverview Club

Wearing their new school togs rather than the formal attire they donned for the previous junior dances this summer, about 175 young people of high school and college age attended Riverview Country club's "back-to-school" party Wednesday night. Some of the gay young crowd that spent the evening dancing, talking and drinking pop are shown in these pictures.

Coming into the dance hall at the extreme left are Henry Johnson, Lawrence college senior, and Miss Connie Krzyzsko, Milwaukee, who works at the Institute of Paper Chemistry. Dancing in front of one of the college pennants that decorated the club for the party, the four young people at the top center are, left to right, Miss Margaret Lally, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. K. Lally, 730 S. State street; Kenneth Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Thompson, 218 E. North street; Miss Rebecca Sturtevant, Fond du Lac; and Kirt Wolter, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Wolter, 518 N. Vine street. Young Mr. Wolter is a midshipman at the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, Md.

The group on the porch enjoying soft drinks is composed of, left to right, John Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Cannon, 4 Brokaw place; Miss Ellen Kluge, daughter of Mr. Henry Kluge, 702 N. Lawe street; Miss Marne Graff, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Marshall C. Graff, 1523 N. Durkee street; and Jim Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller, 1208 N. State street.

Most of the young people in the picture at the right are high school students. Perched on the arm of the divan is Donald Bohl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bohl, 709 N. Oneida street, and standing behind it are, left to right, Miss Helen Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Fox, 701 N. Owaissa street; Edgar E. (Bud) Thomas, son of E. E. Thomas, 114 S. Durkee street; and Miss Sansee Courtney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Courtney, 3 Pierce court, who attends Northwestern university. Seated are Miss Billie Kolb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Kolb, 310 N. Durkee street, and Talbot (Fete) Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Peterson, 719 E. College avenue, who attended Culver Military academy, Culver, Ind., last year but will study at Appleton High school this year. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Is Nutritia Milk as Rich as Other Milk?

Housewives sometimes ask this question about our Nutritia Milk. Since Nutritia Milk has no cream line, is it as rich as the other milk?

Again, we repeat that Nutritia Milk is rich whole milk which is subjected to a process that breaks down the fat globules of the milk causing the particles to remain suspended throughout the milk instead of rising to the top as cream. The richness of Nutritia Milk is THE SAME as the original milk. There is nothing added — nothing subtracted.

In fact, the main purpose of this process is to make the milk uniformly rich throughout. In this way each member of the family gets his share of the richness of the milk instead of one person getting most of the cream. THE BOTTOM DROP IS AS RICH AS THE TOP! Why not try it yourself and see if you don't like it better than ordinary milk? This process makes this milk ALSO MORE EASILY DIGESTIBLE than other milk. It tastes better and is better. Just call us 834 — the price is 10c per quart delivered.

Hollywood—Dear Staff: Vacation fever's got me. I arrived in the office early this morning, fidgeted for fifteen minutes, tried to write an editorial—and then I caught a glimpse of my golf club. I'll see you Monday. In the meantime, give me a report on what goes on today.

If a three weeks lull affects me this way, imagine the mental state of an actor when he has to report for work after a layoff lasting three months! Take Errol Flynn, for instance. As soon as he finishes a picture, he treks off to South America or the Gulf of California or some other outlandish place. He hunts, he fishes, he loafs—and he forgets that such a place as Hollywood exists. Look at Paul Muni—two pictures a year at most and six months to tour the world. Or Warner Baxter—spending at least half of his time lazily cruising up and down the coast in his yacht.

Once the novelty of acting has worn off and the stares of fans become a bore instead of an intoxicant, how those lads and lassies must hate to buckle down to the tough routine of picture making—before-dawn sessions. There's such a thing as having too much leisure—and most really successful actors, having gained star status and the money that goes with it, suffer from that ailment. They develop too many outside interests to keep their interest in acting at the proper bon-fire pitch.

Most humans would react the same way—so don't get any ideas about long vacations next year. JIMMIE FIDLER

DEAR BOSS: Don't you think all this chit-chat about hunting, fishing, lolling, etc., is just a bit and she wanted to know how her purse, lost in the studio had turned up ten miles away in downtown Los Angeles. They said that one of their parking lot attendants had found it—balanced precariously on the back bumper of a roadster. Evidently she had laid it there while making snapshots! The Staff.

Campaign to Raise Money for Class D Squad To Begin Monday

SHARES TO BE $5
Group to be Incorporated With Capital Stock Of $10,000

FINAL plans for a civic drive to raise money with which to finance an Appleton team in a Class D baseball league next season were outlined at a meeting of local businessmen and interested parties last evening.

The local baseball association will be incorporated with capital stock of $10,000 and $5 shares will be sold in a public campaign which will get underway Monday morning.

About 30 solicitors will canvass Appleton, Kaukauna, Little Chute and Kimberly to sell the common stock while a committee composed of Dave Smith, Elmer Honkamp and Harry Sylvester will seek the cooperation of industrial plants.

A meeting of stockholders will be held at a later date to determine whether the organization shall be a non-profit or profit-sharing corporation permanent officers and a board of directors will be elected at that time.

Temporary Officers
Temporary officers are C. O. Baetz, president, Ben Pfeiffer, treasurer, and Gordon McIntyre, secretary.

Appleton has been granted a franchise in the league which already includes Sheboygan, Fond du Lac, Green Bay, Wisconsin Rapids and LaCrosse. There is a possibility of Wausau and Eau Claire coming into the circuit.

The group will seek the cooperation of the city council in providing for a concrete stadium, sodding of the diamond and canvas for the fence at Spencer street athletic field in next year's budget.

Present plans call for a total of 126 games next season with 63 of them scheduled on the home grounds.

Appleton Girls Squad Rallies to Avenge Previous Defeat

Although out of 7 to 6, the Appleton Blue Jays displayed some snappy fielding and handed the New London girls a 6 to 5 defeat last night at the New London Lighted diamond in revenge for a recent 13-7 defeat.

Shirley "Lefty" Helmritz mounded for the winners and allowed 3 hits and walked 3 while Mildred Schoenicke of the losers allowed only 6 hits and walked 2. Grace Kille donned the mask and pad for Appleton and Mielke for New London.

Chera Salm hit a long home run into right centerfield in the sixth inning with 2 aboard to put the Appleton squad in the lead. The only other extra base hit of the game was a double by Schoenicke. Kille got 2 safeties in 3 attempts and Van Hogan hit safely in 1 attempt to lead the Appleton batting while Schoenicke hit 3 for 4 for the losers.

Phil Zwick Fights To Draw With Peters

Hollywood—(P)—Nick Peters of San Antonio and Phil Zwick of Kaukauna, Wis., lightweights, fought to a draw last night. Referee Reggie Gilmore halted the fight in the eighth round, saying Zwick was unable to continue because of a cut on the nose, caused when he was unintentionally butted by Peters.

The battle was halted for 10 minutes in the third round when Zwick went down, claiming he had been fouled. After weeping for several minutes in his corner, Zwick was persuaded to continue.

All-Star Squad Defeats Gunners

Cochran, Kischer, Tonelli Score in 21-13 Win At St. Louis

St. Louis—(P)—Football professionals and particularly the St. Louis Gunners of the American league today looked upon the 21 to 13 victory by a college All-Star team as proof that all the "rah-rah" fight hasn't been eliminated from the amateurs.

A shirt-sleeved crowd of 5,000 sat in July heat last night and watched the collegians—recruited from 16 midwestern schools—salvage some of the prestige lost in five defeats of other college All-Star teams by professionals in the last three weeks.

Denny Cochran of St. Louis University, Everett Kischer, 1938 Iowa State star, and Mario Tonelli of Notre Dame scored the touchdowns for the collegians.

The smart attack by the amateurs was paced by Jack Dodd, ex-Norwaskia star, whose scoring was limited to one point after touchdown. Les Peifer of Missouri, an end, and Bill Hofer, Notre Dame quarter, kicked the other points. Tackle Joe Beiner of Notre Dame was a stand-out in the Stars' line.

On Sunday Marion will go to Bear Creek. Symco will play at Manawa and Tigerton will be host to Red River.

St. John High School Grid Team Begins to Take Shape

LITTLE CHUTE—St. John High gridders scrimmaged last year's regulars yesterday afternoon after a week of drill. Coach Greg Hartjes was well satisfied with the showing of his proteges, although his line showed a weakness against the charges of last year's gridders. On offense his first string backs reeled off nice gains, with Jimmy Koehn, in left half position, slashing off yardage to show he will bear watching this fall. Koehn tips the scale at only 120 pounds but is tough and fast. On pass offense, Cletus Hurst showed accuracy, getting off some perfect tosses. Woody Mc Cabe bore the brunt of interference and plunging at the fullback position and will be in that position when the Dutchmen open their season here against Kiel on Saturday, Sept. 23. He also is a good punter.

Only two players are left of last season's first string, with Harold Dercks, and Stan Versteegen, ends, being the veterans, so the rookies will bear the brunt of the season's contests. After being second string fullback for this week Harold Van den Heuvel, a husky sophomore, stepped in at tackle and made quite an impression at the berth with chances he will stay there. Other linemen who starred are Carl Evers at center, and Joe Simons at left guard.

Besides the first stringers, Coach Hartjes has a strong second team, which will see a lot of action before the season is over. Among them are Jim Drensen, Joe De Groot, Ralph Jansen, Cletus Lenz, Kenny Shannon, Harold Schumaker, Adrien Van Bokel Lawrence, Van Grinsven, Bob Van Asten, Norb Vosters and Gene Weyenberg.

A number of rookies also will be carried, due to their good showing, with Jim Hartzeim and Clyde Koehn tops. Others are Rich Ebn Harry Hart, Jim Lenz, Clayton Mc Cabe, Joe Nicodem, Mark Peeters, Bob Vanden Berg, Ernie Van Bostel, Bob Van Grinsven and Bud Strick.

Wolves, will hurt for the locals, while Lefty Kaufmann, a talented southpaw, will be on the mound for the visitors. The contest is the last on the regular playing schedule for the two teams but both will participate in the playoffs which commence Sunday, Sept. 17.

The boys who maul one another in prize-fight rings or who smear each other on football fields may not know it but they constitute something of a bulwark against the flood of claims and counter-claims from war-torn Europe.

Such at least was the opinion of Dr. Robert N. McMurry, executive secretary of the Psychological Corporation, given today in an interview on possible means of combating propaganda.

"One way," he said, "is to provide a harmless outlet for the public's aggressive, sadistic impulses and excess energy through spectator and participant sports, such as prize fights, football, baseball, basketball, wrestling and other games."

The Psychological Corporation is a group of consulting psychologists with offices in New York and Chicago. It has research assistants in about 77 localities throughout the country.

Manawa and Symco in Decisive League Tilt

Manawa—Manawa and Symco will settle their differences on the baseball diamond here Sunday in a Pigeon River Valley league contest. Both teams are tied for the lead with Marion and Sunday's battle will go a long way in determining the 1939 champion. Each team has defeated the other once, Manawa winning a Memorial day game here, 9 to 4, while Symco was victorious on its diamond by an 18 to 5 count a few weeks later.

Kimberly and Menasha to Play Rubber Game For Fox River Valley League Title Sunday

THE rubber game for the championship of the Fox River Valley league will take place at Menasha Sunday afternoon.

In the crucial contest, which is expected to draw one of the largest crowds of the league season, the outcome is considered a tossup as Kimberly won on its opponents' field, 6 to 5, in the first game of the series and the Falcons defeated the Papermakers last Sunday at the Kimberly park by a 5 to 4 score.

In the first game of the series, Menasha had the game in its grasp, driving in six runs off Van Cuyk to go into the lead, but a late inning rally by the Papermakers, which saw Artie Hofkins, who re-lived Van Cuyk on the mound, drive in the winning run in the final frame and wrest certain victory from the Falcons.

In last Sunday's contest, Van Cuyk showed his true worth, fanning 14 opponents and allowing 4 hits, but his mates broke down in the clutch to boot away the game. Artie Hofkins had a great day at the plate with four hits in five appearances, one a long home run. Sheddieski and Kolakowski, Falcon outfielders, paced the winners with two hits apiece.

Nip and Tuck
Last Sunday's battle was nip and tuck throughout with the Papermakers threatening in the final frame, loading the bases, but a strike ended the rally and sent Menasha home with a victory and the series even.

Manager Art Buzanowski will stick to his regular lineup, again sending Syl Omar to the mound, with Ben Peck receiving. Buzanowski will perform on first base, directing the team from there. E. Pauloski will show at second base. Badger Nodolny will be stationed at shortstop, with S. Pauloski on the red light sack. In the outfield, Sheddieski will be in left, H. Stutznowski in center, and Kolakowski in right, giving the Falcons hitting strength besides a classy outfield.

Butch Thien, Papermaker pilot, may start Artie Hofkins on the mound as his assortment of curves may best the Falcons, although Johnny Van Cuyk came through with a great exhibition last Sunday. A shakeup is expected after the poor showing of some of his infielders, which was the cause of the Papermaker defeat. Sonny Wildenberg will be on the receiving end and Bowman on the initial sack. Peotter on second base, Buck Le May on short and Vander Heiden at third base. In the outfield Manager Thien has Ernie Wildenberg, Kobs, Van Dyke and Gossens to start out. It is expected that Thien will be in the game himself if his rookies blow up. He still can play any position.

Umpires will be Helms behind the plate, Brockhaus at first base, and Reichel at third base. The game is scheduled to start promptly at 2 o'clock.

WILL FOLLOW TEAM
Kimberly—Several hundred fans will follow Butch Thien's Papermakers to Menasha Sunday when the Kimberly team will match wits with the Menasha Falcons in the final game of a three-game series. Sunday's contest will start at 2 o'clock and will show one of the best games in the valley as both squads are evenly matched.

Manager Butch Thien announced that he would start J. Van Cuyk on the mound with Artie Hofkins in reserve. Last Sunday the youthful twirler fanned 14 men and only allowed 4 hits in the eight innings he pitched. Supporting Van Cuyk will be LeMay at shortstop, Peotter, second base, Kobs or Van Dyke, right field; Bowman, first base; Horn, left field; Hofkins, or Vander Heiden, third base; Gossens, center field and S. Wildenberg, catch.

During the season the Papermakers have won eight games with no defeats during the first round while in the second half they won four and lost four. The team has a batting average of .302 for the season which includes all league, outside and two playoff games.

Tuffy Horn leads the batting list with a percentage of .430. In 79 times at bat he got 34 hits. Kobs with a percentage of .394, was at the plate 66 times and got 26 hits. Average for the team is as follows:

Twin City Batters At Top of List in Association Race

Younger Brother of Billy Burke Trailing Shute in Tournament

Glen Falls, N. Y.—(P)—There'll be another Buck hitting the winter golf trail to gold and glory if this 11th annual $4,000 Glens Falls open winds up the way Brother Eddie figures it should.

The younger brother of Billy Burke, one-time national open champion and long a top-flight tournament pro, Eddie was in a good position to make good his boast of finishing in the big money as the second day's play began.

Coming in with a 67 yesterday, Eddie finished the day in second spot behind Denny Shute's brilliant six under par 66.

Burke and Shute were among 14 who shot sub-par golf on the opening day of the 72-hole, three-day tourney.

Right behind them in third spot was another stroke back at 68 was Tony Manero, winner last year.

The 60 low scorers and ties after today's round will enter the final 36-hole play tomorrow.

Kansas City Grabs Association Flag By Beating Saints

Blues Win First One, 5-2, And Then Have a 20-2 Celebration

By the Associated Press
THE baseball fans don't call the Kansas City Blues the "little Yankees" for nothing.

The Blues, farm club of the American league champions, clinched the American association pennant last night as everyone expected them to, but in a surprisingly brutal exhibition of power.

They needed only one victory or a Minneapolis defeat, but just to nail down the flag for certain the Blues plastered two defeats on St. Paul. And just to make sure there would be no misunderstanding about the champion, Milwaukee rose up and defeated Minneapolis twice. Kansas City now has a season and a half game lead and the season ends Sunday.

The Blues were lame enough in trimming the Saints, 5 to 2, in the first game. In the second they scored 14 runs in the fourth inning and went on to win, 20 to 2, on 23 hits.

Kansas City's spurge against St. Paul and Louisville's 11 to 3 victory over Columbus boosted the Colonels into fourth place and dropped St. Paul into fifth by a full game. This gives Louisville the inside track in their fight to finish in fourth and qualify for a Shaughnessy playoff berth.

Toledo Beats Indians
Toledo defeated Indianapolis, 8 to 5, with a six-run eighth inning. Les Willis blanked the Millers with two hits in the seven-inning twilight game at Milwaukee.

Enmet Nelson of the Brewers out-pitched Elton Hoggsett in the final. Stan Galle and Joe Skurski, Brewers rookies, continued their heavy hitting, Galle homering in the second game with one on.

Defense With No Objective Is Senseless

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Nothing is more futile than to conduct a defense without an objective clearly in mind. Even if that objective has only a remote chance for success, it is far better than no objective at all. In today's hand, taken from the recent Asbury Park championships, a master player in the East position demonstrated that even the most impregnable appearing situations sometimes have their Achilles' Heel.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 spade 2 4 hearts Pass
2 hearts Pass 4 hearts Pass
Pass Pass

East, it will be observed, although holding three honor tricks and a fairly good five card suit, did not even enter the auction. In this he was wise. Despite the fact that he would have picked up five clubs in his partner's hand, he still could have made no more than two odd, and if he had not picked up those clubs he might have been slaughtered at any overcall.

West opened his fourth highest club and East won with the king. Study of the dummy in connection with the bidding that had gone before must have been rather discouraging to East, but one thing is certain, and that is that he did not "give up." It was obvious that no more club tricks could be snared and, considering South's opening spade bid, defensive spade tricks seemed very doubtful also. If the contract could be defeated, then the setting tricks had to come from trumps and from the diamond suit. Needless to say, whatever trump tricks belonged to the defenders could not get away, but the diamond situation (unless West had the ace) would require development. Thus, having won the club king, East made the farsighted return of a diamond directly up to dummy's strength.

Declarer had forebodings of what was going to happen, but was absolutely powerless to protect himself. He snatched West's diamond jack with dummy's queen, and led a low heart. East ducked and the seven spot forced West's king. West, following orders, returned his remaining diamond, which also was won in dummy. Now, on the second trump lead, East's ace won and a third diamond return was ruffed by West for the setting trick.

I do not wish to imply that there was anything sensational about the above defense, but it is a fact that most players seem extremely loathe to attack such a suit as dummy's diamond suit in this case. Yet, on close analysis, it should be obvious that the one outstanding hope of defeating the contract lies in building a ruffing position in diamonds, and that no other line of defense has any well defined objective.

THE HOME GARDENER

By EDWIN H. PERKINS

Pansies set a record this year. Many were grown and due to favorable conditions the quality, on a whole, was the best we have had for many years. Quite a few gardeners have saved seeds from their own plants which will be sown at this time in the more temperate parts of the country or have been sown in the colder sections. A second sowing is recommended; however, the recommendation is not to be made from home-grown seeds. It is suggested that seeds of a choice strain shall be purchased. The results will, in nearly every case, convince the gardener that it is foolish to attempt growing good pansies from one's own seeds.

In order to have large blooms good treatment of the plants is necessary but no treatment will put coloring and substance into the flowers if these qualities are not inherent. Pansy seed growers know this and they pull out all plants not intended for seeding before the seed pods begin forming. Such treatment insures against contamination during the seed formative stage.

No gardener is willing to do this with the result that insects get in their work and change the quality of the seeds. When the plants bloom they produce flowers hardly worth a second glance, and the soil, weather and everything else are blamed for the poor results when the seeds, sown in the soil, are always preferable to saving them.

My Neighbor Says—

Bulbs for winter display indoors should be potted at intervals so that you will have a continuous supply of flowers.

Remove all old varnish from furniture before trying to revarnish it. A cup of sal soda to 2 quarts of hot water will help. Scrub each piece with a stiff brush. Wear rubber gloves to protect your hands.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Shapely Bernice Stewart keeps that way by eating sensibly and knowing her calories!

Suppose you had to keep yourself as slim as a professional model all the year round? As slim, let us say as pretty Bernice Stewart pictured above? Would it be a problem?

According to Bernice, who is a popular model for magazine covers and a promising starlet for Paramount Studio, it is no trouble at all—if you know your calories! She claims she keeps slender by eating and enjoys every meal!

The diet she follows is the "3-7-11" diet which includes the three base foods—carbohydrates, fats, and proteins, seven vitamins and the eleven accepted minerals. All necessary to properly balanced menus.

By knowing and counting her calories, Bernice eats sensibly and finds no need to go on a starvation diet. . . indeed she says, "I could never afford a haggard face, wrinkles and flabbiness that so often follow insufficient meals."

In fact, she even includes bread in her menus when she is working hard, for she believes it to be a good source of food energy, and a slice contains only from 65 to 100 calories.

Any woman who desires model proportions of her own should chart an individual calorie count. She should consult my weight table to know just how much she should weigh for her height and years. If she is only moderately

School and Teachers Can't Replace Home and Parents

BY ANGELO PATRI

School is an extension of home, but not a substitute for the home. Nor are the teachers substitutes for the parents. Children are at home under the influence of its routine and its standards for the greater part of the time. What father does, what mother says, are the law. What school demands and what the teachers say have to be accepted for the duration of the school day, but once the dismissal bells ring they fall into second place, often into no place. It is home and family that pulls hardest always.

This is not belittling the influence of school. It has a tremendous influence on the community and its children, but it is not the first influence, nor, in spite of what many parents seem to believe, the only one. It cannot take full responsibility for the children. It cannot assume the duties of parents. Its existence does not excuse fathers and mothers from the duty of training their children.

The home has pushed many of its duties upon the school. For example, the high school is forced to give evening dances to keep the pupils in a safe and pleasant place while they develop their social instincts to a practical maturity. One school principal scheduled the dances to begin at eight and stop at eleven in the hope that the children would get home and to bed before midnight. A committee of parents called on him promptly.

"We think that eleven is too early to stop the dances, and eight too early to begin. Better start at nine and stop at twelve-thirty or one." The committee was not quite agreed on the stopping time, but they were all for after midnight. "Cinderella dances," you know.

"But the children ought to be in bed by that time. I am afraid their health and their work will suffer if they keep late hours."

"But they will be all over the town if you put them out at eleven."

en. We don't want them on the streets at all hours."

"But if they understand that you expect them to go home immediately they are dismissed!"

"They won't. They'll just spread out all over the town and we are afraid they will get into trouble. Keep them here until they are ready to go home. At least until midnight. Most of them will be too sleepy by that time to want to go far."

There is something the matter when parents cannot tell their children to come home at a set time.

Strict Leash Does Not Help Outlook for 16-Year-Old Girl

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—My daughter, who is not quite 17, has become a great problem. Instead of being content to spend her evenings with the family she wants to have dates and go out with what she calls "the gang." Worse still, when I refused to let her go she told me that if I did not give her more liberty she would go without my permission. She even threatens to leave home. How can I prevent her from running wild like the rest of the young people?
B. J. L.
Answer:

Perhaps your daughter wouldn't seem quite so much of a problem if you would think back to the time when you were nearly 17. It is because parents forget what they were like when they were boys and girls that they get so pessimistic about their own children and lie awake at night wondering what the world is coming to, and glooming over the depravity of modern youth.

You are worried sick over your 16-year-old who wants to do what all the other youngsters are doing: whose feet are aching to dance and who wants to run with the crowd instead of spending her evenings at home in the bosom of the family. But isn't that exactly the way you felt when you were a boy or girl? Do you when you were her age? Weren't you boy-crazy? Didn't you feel that you would die with disappointment if you missed going to some party? And was your idea of a good time spending the evening at home listening to Grandpa reminisce about the Civil War, and Mother and Father thrash over the domestic problems and groan over the way the price of eggs had gone up?

You know very well that your Janey is just a reincarnation of you in your adolescent girlhood. You know that you got over thinking that every little pimply-faced pipsqueak of a boy was a hero of romance and of belief that you couldn't live if you didn't have a new bat. You thought it was all-important to do exactly what all the other girls were doing, and incredible as probably your mother and father thought, you developed into a fine, sensible woman.

So why take Janey so seriously? Why not give her the benefit of the doubt and trust to her good breeding and the wise teaching you have given her to come through this wacky period of life unscathed? Don't worry about Janey and use a little common sense in dealing with her. Give up the foolish idea of trying to make her like the modern girl into the prunes and prisms young person of the Victorian era, which you can't do. Streamline her ideas of what a nice girl should be, which you can't do.

Of course, she is not going to be content to spend all her evenings with the family, but she would be willing to stay at home some evenings if she wouldn't have to have a row with you about every time she went out. Let her have a reasonable number of dates and she will go fifty-fifty with you. And that's fair, for a girl of her age is entitled to step out a bit.

Of course, she wants to run with the gang. All young people are gregarious and naturally she wants to go with boys and girls of her own age. We oldsters are awful bores to the young. But take the danger out of that by letting her have her friends come to the house. Entertain them. Make them welcome. Let them have good times. In that way you can find out who her companions are and gently and insidiously freeze out the undesirables without her knowing it.

Face the fact that if you don't give your daughter any liberty she will steal it. If you don't let boys come to the house, she will meet them on the sly. If you object to everything she does, she won't tell you anything. So don't force her into deceiving you. The best protection against any mother can give her daughter is her home. Don't take the girl from her by making her home a prison. Try laughing at your daughter's faults instead of weeping over them. You will get a lot better results.

Problem: How to Deal With Jealous Son
Dear Miss Dix—I have been divorced from my first husband for of them since their brother eloped with a girl I am sure none of them at that time knew. Can I write to them just as though nothing had happened, or would it be in bad taste to write at all under the circumstances.

Answer: I find your attitude rather hard to understand, and I imagine others will too—not so much because you continue to like his sisters, but because of the endless emotions involved—their love for him, their embarrassment about you, the memories they bring back sound very complicating to me. Of course if you and he both got completely over your sentiment for each other, and apart from gossip perhaps his marriage has caused you no concern. That is a different situation from one implied by the word "jilted."

When Is "Late?"
Dear Mrs. Post: My mother is dead and my father fears my reputation is at stake if I stay out too late at night. I agree with him, but we are at odds on the question of what is late. I am eighteen, which I imagine is necessary for you to know before answering, and all my friends stay out as late as I do.

Answer: If you go to a dance—particularly a debutante one—it is proper to stay until it is over, possibly at six in the morning. If you go to an ordinary party or to a hotel dance you should be home before twelve. Ordinarily if you go out for dinner and a movie, you should be home by eleven.

Who Is a Suitable Chaperon?
Dear Mrs. Post: I want to drive a thousand miles with a man I know very well, and perhaps will some day marry, although that is still too distant a possibility to think about. My older brother will go with us if you will say that his company would provide suitable chaperonage. Mother insists that only a brother of the girl would make things look right to other people. By the way, in case it makes any difference, we are going to visit the family of these boys.

Answer: Your mother is right.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

While being duly appreciative of the fine work done by our clergy, I hope to serve as Herman's bumble bee today and waken some of them from their lullaby sermonizing. A clergyman is a salesman of religion, and how long would a business firm retain a salesman who put his prospects to sleep.

CASE O-142: Herman G., aged 26, is a plumbing contractor.

"Our church music is pretty good," he admitted, "but I just can't stay awake during the service."

"Maybe I am to blame, but I have no difficulty sitting through a double feature at our neighborhood movie."

"Our clergyman drones along in a lullaby voice so that I simply cannot follow him. His very movements on the platform remind me of slow motion movies."

"I'd give a $20 bill if a bumble bee would sting him some Sunday just so I could see him pepped up for once. Dr. Crane, if salesmen for business firms were as dull and lifeless as our pastor, they'd never be able to get a sale in the future. So then he refuses to answer my letters or to come home on his vacations and won't even tell me of his plans or whereabouts. All of his former love and devotion to me is gone. I could have the dean of the school compel him to write at least once a week, but I hardly would appreciate love by force. What is your advice?"

Answer:
Evidently your son is suffering from an acute attack of jealousy. Up to the time that you married he had been the sole object of your affection and interest, and when you took unto yourself a husband he couldn't stand having his little nose put out of joint.

Children at his age are morbid creatures and they enjoy nothing so much as posing to themselves, at least, as martyrs. They simply pile on the agony as they picture themselves as poor, miserable, neglected, mistreated victims of a mother's perfidy, or a father's cruelty. When they have a stepfather or a stepmother, it is as if they were the cause of all of their misfortunes, they wallow in woe. And like it.

You should be very tender and sympathetic with your boy because he is suffering as many pangs of jealousy as you are. If your boy could about his sweetie. My suggestion to you would be to keep on writing him affectionate mother letters, but don't insist on his coming home, or make too much of his not answering letters. You see he is trying to pay you back for what he considers your deserting him. He wants to hurt you as much as you have hurt him, and he will keep it up as long as he knows he is making you miserable. But, if it is his will, let him make his own mistakes, and give it up.

For the same reason don't oppose his going to his own father. It will take all the kick out of it if he finds that you don't care and have no desire to separate them. Boys at his age are little-cattle to manage because they are neither child nor man.

Later the road was a dark brown carpet between the trees of a green velvet forest. The woods were filled with sounds. There was the twittering of birds close by in the trees, the distant caw-caw of deeper-throated birds. There was the rustle of startled wings and the rippling of a brook. There was the creaking of old wood and the stirring in the leaves made by the little creatures who lived there undisturbed.

"Look, Cecily, at the plume of smoke from the farmhouse beyond the hill."

"The scars on this old tree-trunk."

"The pines on the cape and the sand-dunes."

"At the music festival at Salzburg."

"Have you ever been to Palermo?"

"You go to the village for coffee at five and on the way back, you walk a lonely path. On one side you see the bright colored sails. On the other, the olive trees in the sun."

"Sometimes, Cecily, when we are in New York, I'll take you to the Battery at dusk on a foggy day. We'll share a bag of peanuts and listen to the symphony of foghorns and watch the veils of purple, gray and blue swirling in the lights from the ships."

"Conversation, while her step matched his. Word pictures of things they knew and liked. Disjointed little things, eagerly proffered that one might share the other's past pleasures. Vignettes, revealing, one to the other the background each had known."

But nothing that told Cecily anything definite about Locke. He had been educated in Colorado, his birthplace. He'd been in Europe, Mexico and Canada. He'd been a newspaper reporter, a cowboy. He knew how to set a broken bone, dance a rumba, shoot around corners. At least, that was what he told Cecily.

Then the velvet forest fell away as though it were a curtain at their back and they came into the open where the water spread deep and blue before them. The slow rollers came in and broke on a white beach where the bleached stones were rubbed smooth by many tides. The water and the sands stretched as far as their eyes could see. It was an immense theater and Cecily and Locke were alone in it.

"Hungry?" he asked, flinging down the knapsack.

"Getting to be," she answered. The early dusk was beginning to fall, the sky deepening swiftly.

"Then you get to work." He led her to a place on the sands where there was a great dried log. Beside it there was a large tin box the size of a hamper.

"I came out yesterday to exercise Careless Grace," he explained as he opened the box, "and brought a few supplies."

Cecily was thinking: He was looking forward to this, too.

Two brothers or two sisters can't be accepted chaperons, but a brother is usually considered a proper chaperon for his sister.

ing them in the fire at the ends of the pronged forks. The thick, succulent meat sputtered and sizzled. The coffee boiled over and sputtered on the fire.

At last, when Cecily thought she could bear it no longer, darkness had fallen and the meal was ready. Butter dripped on their chins. Cecily had a smudge of black across her cheek but neither of them noticed it.

The paper dishes were burned in the fire which flared up and had burned down to a pleasant glow of embers. The forks and spoons and cups had been washed at the water's edge and put back in the box.

The twin lights of their cigarettes glowed companionably as they stretched out on the sands with their backs resting against the log. Back of them was the still night of the forest and the road back which would be lighted a little later by the full moon. In front of them was the ocean, waiting to glimmer where the rising moon picked out a path of chautauque and silver. The rhythmic whirr of the waves on the smooth sands played an accompaniment to their contentment.

Cecily leaned her head back against the log and looked at the heavens. She spoke softly, hesitant to break the lovely silence of the night. "You were right."

"Umm."

"About the heavens. You said they looked like a bowl of stars. You didn't say it was a lapis lazuli bowl filled with diamonds. Such lovely diamonds! I never cared for them before."

"Do you like them?" he asked.

"Then, I'll pick a handful for me and make you a crown of them."

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK

A question about life on the planets comes from a reader, Howard Sadlo.

"Are there any planets besides Mars which scientists think people may be living on?" he asks.

As I said during our recent series on Mars, it is possible but not at all certain that people may live there. What kind of people Mars has, if any, is a question which we could only guess about.

As to the other planets, there seems a fair chance of only one of them having life. That is the planet Venus, which is closer to the sun than the earth.

Venus was named in honor of an ancient goddess of love and beauty. When shining at its best, it is one of the most beautiful objects in the sky.

Venus is nearly the same size as the earth. Its diameter is only about 200 miles less than the earth's diameter. This means it is closest of all known heavenly bodies to the size of our own planet.

Before I tell you why Venus might be the home of people, I am going to give notes on other planets to show why they may be counted out.

Mercury appears to be a barren world. It is not much more than one-third as far from the sun as the earth is, which means the sun must shine on it more fiercely.

Another fact about Mercury is that it seems to keep the same side toward the sun at all times. This would make it too hot on one side for living beings, and too cold on the other side.

Making a journey away from the sun, we pass Mars and then come to Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto. These last five are all so far from the sun they must be too cold for life. Some of them may be crusted with ice thousands of miles thick.

Venus is about half way between the earth and Mercury. It seems to be at a distance from the sun which would make life possible. We might expect it to be much hotter than the earth, but there is a thick cloud blanket around it. The clouds no doubt guard the surface from too much sunshine.

So far as we have been able to tell by tests, the air of Venus is not made of the same gases as the earth's air. The tests have been made, however, on air above the cloud blanket. There may be plenty of oxygen below the clouds for animal life, and for people.

Buying Fades as Trades Cash in On Boom Profits

Industrials, Rails Gain as Much as 2 Points on Market Today

Compiled by the Associated Press
 New York (P)—Stock market traders were still war-conscious today but the buying urge faded a trifle and, with the week-end recess at hand, many inclined to cash profits which had piled up since Tuesday.
 Gains ran to two points or so for selected industrials and rails, at a lively opening in which the ticker—

 Tape was behind for a while and blocks of as much as 5,000 shares changed hands. Activity then slackened. Closing prices were under the tops in many instances and, here and there, moderate declines were in evidence.
 Notwithstanding slow intervals, transfers for the two hours approximated 1,500,000 shares. The first hour's volume of 730,000 shares was the smallest for any similar period this week.
 Part of the day's selling was attributed to a more cautious attitude of speculative forces in view of conjectures that Hitler might attempt a quick peace if and when the Germans conquer Poland.
 At the same time, many observers in the financial district foresaw a drawn-out struggle in Europe. Europe, with home industries benefitting from expanding demand for all sorts of goods other than war materials.
 Bethlehem Steel was one of the strong spots of the list throughout. Aiding this bellwether was the announcement the company had been granted a contract for the construction of 10 cargo vessels by the maritime commission at a cost of $19,400,000.
 U. S. government securities slipped, but secondary corporate bonds showed further improvement. Commodities were erratic. Wheat futures again turned downward.

Grain Prices Fall In Profit-Taking At Chicago Market

Wheat Drops More Than 3 Cents, Corn 2½ to 3 Cents Today

Chicago (P)—Another heavy wave of profit-taking caused grain prices to slump sharply again today, wiping out a portion of the past week's sharp upturn that followed the start of Europe's war.
 A decline of more than three cents in wheat put values over eight cents a bushel under highs Thursday but left the market about 14 cents above the lows prior to the outbreak of hostilities and 10 cents above prices a year ago. Corn lost 2½ cents to more than 3 cents.
 Receipts were: wheat 16 cars, corn 70, oats 38.
 Although rallying slightly just before the end, wheat closed 2½-3 cents lower than yesterday, September 8, December 82½; corn 1½-3½ lower, September 56-56½, December 56½-56½, oats 3½-3½ down.

Take Precautions Now and Save Repairs Later, Is Jahnke's Tip

Cold weather, although not definitely established in this locality as yet, brings with it many hazards for automobile drivers which can be eliminated in a large degree by wise precautionary measures taken before lower temperatures arrive.

A thorough checkup of an automobile at this time of year to discover weakened, worn parts and accessories, oftentimes saves money and future car trouble, explains the Jahnke Wrecking Company, located between Appleton and Menasha, Highway 41. Don't pay the penalty, Jahnke's warn, resulting from dead batteries, cracked radiators, dangerous skids and accidents due to smooth tires. The Jahnke firm is fully equipped to check over these and other car repair necessities and determine what work may be necessary to place the car in first class shape to meet all types of "weather" conditions. Well-stocked, good, used or new accessories or parts available at this firm's headquarters makes it possible, too, for car owners to realize considerable savings on any purchases made at Jahnke's.

The long list of services featured by this firm include, in addition to dealing in used and new parts, accessories of every description, tires, repairing and rebuilding of damaged cars, selling of used cars, towing service, and daily employee service until 10 P. M., including Sundays.

BETTER MOUSETRAP

Sunnyvale, Calif.—(AP)—Maybe there's something to the saying about rewards awaiting the man who makes the best mousetrap. Mark L. Young has invented a new mousetrap—and the American Humane association has awarded him $150. It was first prize in its "humane trap" contest.

War Boom Can Be Only Temporary, Babson Believes

After Conflict Is Over, America May Face Another Depression

WHAT DOES WAR MEAN TO BUSINESS?
Babson Says America's Best Defense Is To Protect Our Dollar

En Route To Honolulu—The outlook for civilization for the next twenty-five years is dismal. America may not be drawn into the war—certainly not before January, 1941. In the meantime, the war means better business, rising prices, higher cost of living, bigger wages, and more jobs in America. For the long-term, no matter who wins, the war means world inflation followed by poverty, revolution, and chaos for the combatant countries and anarchy and depression for us.

It will have been a miracle if, when the final effects of this new war are felt, we have been able to retain our democratic form of government. If we are drawn into the war, I dare not predict what will be the eventual outcome. Only a spiritual revival can ever haul the world out of the abyss into which it is rapidly sinking today.

Why Babson Made No Forecast

The war news caught me out here on the Pacific Ocean. Although I felt right up until the last that there was as good a chance of peace as war, nevertheless I knew that Hitler was unpredictable. That is why, in my annual outlook last New Year's day, I refused to forecast that there would be no war in Europe in 1939, although I had made the definite forecast for both 1937 and 1938. Before Munich, and again this spring, I predicted no war because I knew that England and France were not ready to say "No" to Hitler. This time, however, they were prepared to call his bluff.

The war means better business in America for the next few months. Billions of dollars worth of our farm products, iron and steel, copper and oil, machinery and motors will be needed to supply the millions of men under arms. Stocks of companies furnishing materials and foodstuffs have already started to rise sharply. With the gold flow from Europe to New York now ended, the war marks the turning point in the era of record low interest rates. Wages will work higher, offsetting rising costs of food, clothing and other necessities. Many new jobs will open up, but taxes and other costs of doing business will continue to advance. Over the long-term, however, we will find that this war boom is a very costly boom.

America Must Stay Out
Most important question of the hour is America's position. Can we stay out? I imagine this issue has been debated in every home from Honolulu to Boston this past week. Surely, we must have learned our lesson from the last war. We did not make Hitler stupid. European diplomacy of the twenties made him. My whole sympathy naturally is with England and France. They are our first line of defense, but we are not responsible for their mistakes and we should not spill the blood of American youth to pull chestnuts out of the fire for these countries.

We must, however, back President Roosevelt's new program for further defense expenses 100 per cent. Certainly, we must defend this hemisphere. Hitler, Stalin, nor Hirohito must not get even so much as a toehold in the Americas. The Monroe Doctrine must be enforced to the limit. If England and France are our first line of defense, then Latin America is our second and a far more vital one.

New York Replaces London
In this connection, readers may remember an article of last winter in which I said that our strongest defense—in fact, the most powerful military machine in all the world. The British pound and allied currencies have cracked wide open. London can no longer support them. Whatever else happens in the war, one result is already clear. New York, not London, will be the future financial and monetary center of the world.

But just as the pound has broken under the onslaught of Britain's huge pump-priming expenditures of the past decade, so can our dollar be smashed. I want to repeat my warning of last winter—our best defense against armed invasion is the protection of our public credit and our dollar. Instead of sending our youth to the battlefields of Europe to save something for somebody, we must protect our dollar and our democracy from within! They go hand in hand. We must stop the raids on our treasury by selfish pressure groups. In the last ten years, we have spent twice what the first World War cost us.

Stop Our Treasury Raids
These treasury raids are conducted in the name of emergency relief. Yet, of the $10,000,000,000 appropriated by the last congress, less than 25 per cent will go for our unemployed. The balance is gushing out of Washington in foolish uneconomic attempts to peg farm prices, dig useless canals, build unnecessary dams. In view of the European situation, we must cut all government in order to protect our dollar and expenses—local, state, and federal—our public credit.

Moreover, if we want to save something for somebody, let us save real democracy for America. Let us kick out irresponsible labor dictators and their running-mates—cheap grafting politicians. Let us not forget God in America as He has been forgotten in Europe. If we must "straighten out" any people, let us straighten out our own and be prepared to face any enemy who attacks our shores with a clean government, a bulging treasury, and a united people!

Be A Careful Driver

1940 Nash Offers New Features, Lower Prices; on Display Now

Eighteen automobiles, possessing new features which are reported to make driving more fun, more comfortable and safer than ever before, were announced at Detroit today by Nash for the 1940 automobile year.

First models to arrive in this city were unveiled today for public inspection at the showroom of Auto Sales Co., 124 E. Washington street. Prices of the new cars will be from $20 to $50 lower than those of comparable models in 1939, W. A. Blees, general sales manager of Nash Motors Division of Nash-Kelvinator Corp., announced.

Nash, which broke many sales records during the 1939 model year when public acceptance for its cars increased rapidly, will make a drive in the low-price market this model year with an extra large and high powered car, Blees made known. Nash's low-priced automobile, the De Luxe Lafayette, has 117-inch wheelbase, a 99-horsepower motor, and offers a number of driving and construction features generally found only on much higher priced cars, he said.

This low-priced series is made up of six models, as are the other two series being introduced by this company—the twin-ignition, valve-in-head Ambassador Eight, and the Ambassador Sixes. These will be sold in the medium-priced field, and, like the low-priced cars will be among the biggest automobiles in their price class, Blees said.

Improve Ride
The new Nash "Arrow Flight" ride is the result of a new method of springing—the combination of long, synchronous springs and super-size shock absorbers in the rear, and soft, individual coil springing on the front wheels, he said.

Another development contributing to the "Arrow Flight Ride" is a new steering arrangement which is said to make steering easier and surer, and to hold the car to its course, even on the roughest of roads. The steering gear also makes possible shorter turning radius. "There is another driving thrill in store for motorists," Blees said, "in the Nash 'Overtake'—an advancement of the automatic fourth speed forward. To use it, the driver presses the throttle to the floor and the full power and pull of the engine and conventional third gear is at his command for passing cars and for getting out of tight spots. The return to the automatic fourth speed forward is made by lifting the foot from the accelerator for a split second."

This year the driving public actually will see the famous Nash "Weather Eye," the mysterious weather watcher which automatically prevents changes in outside weather from affecting inside car comfort. The "Eye" is mounted on top of the instrument panel near the windshield, and takes its outside weather readings through the glass. A flick of a radio-like control dial is all that is necessary to set the system. The "Eye" automatically maintains the car comfort ordered by the setting of the dial, even if the temperature outside changes radically. The air in the car constantly is being changed and, as a result, tobacco smoke is whisked from the car almost instantly.

Another contribution to comfortable and pleasant motoring is the Nash "Sand Mortar" soundproofing. An additional anti-noise barrier is built up by Nash this year by the use of insulation, at every point where the body is held to the frame. Fabreka, a new type of high efficiency insulation, is used. The combination of the two, Blees declares, makes Nash cars the most noiseless on the road today.

New Shift

The Nash 1940 models also have a new type of steering post gear shift. Engineers describe this as a solid type of shift which is smooth and silent because it embodies no metallic connections.

The new Nash models are styled to look like the long, low, big and racy cars they are. The airways contributed the style motif, and the flowing stream-lines express movement. Adding to this plane design impression are the new "Sealed Beam" headlights which in design are similar to the landing lights of transport planes. These lights are reported to be a great advancement over old forms of automobile road lighting.

The Nash 1940 bodies give motorists greater safety than ever before. Occupants are completely enclosed by reinforced steel. Heavy-gauge metal is used and this is supported by box-type steel body girders. A heavy steel floor is mounted on a body or sub frame, an exclusive Nash feature. The frame is then mounted securely to the primary frame of the chassis. Bodies are made with streamlined, or conventional trunk boxes. Motorists may have their choice at no extra cost.

High Time Coal Is Ordered, Says Laux Fuel Experts

Offers Quality Line; Recommends Gehl Stoker Inquiries

The time of year has arrived once more when last minute warnings to fill the coal bin really begin to assume importance. Already chilly mornings and even cooler evenings serve to remind householders that it is high time to do something about buying this season's coal supply.

The wide variety of excellent fuels, handled by the J. P. Laux and Sons Fuel and Ice Company, is, of course, now in steady demand with cooler weather already here and lower temperatures soon a certainty. The Laux Company recommends especially in its list of fine fuels its own brand of New Briquets and Laux choice Pocahontas. These two fuels are known to provide steady, even heating qualities with the maximum of economical satisfaction.

Those homeowners who have longed for release from furnace-tending duties and variable heating this coming winter will be wise to consult the Laux firm also about the famous Gehl Stokers which can be installed now without interrupting heating needs. A few minutes a day is all the attention required by this type of heating plant and the saving in fuel is known to actually pay for the low cost of the equipment within a few years.

Furthermore, a welcome new convenience of constant, uniform heat—which can be regulated for all types of weather—is available when the Laux equipment is used. Accurate thermostat controls which almost "think" for themselves provide the answer.

Interpret Ideas In Printing, Is Aim of Petersen

Firm Maintains High Type of Craftsmanship in Its Work

Planning a piece of printed material, isn't merely putting some lines and letters on a piece of paper, explains the Petersen Press, well-known commercial and private printing firm. It encompasses far more than the mechanical knowledge which is evident to some people, this firm maintains.

But, discerning people, Petersen's believe, realize that behind the artists' brushes, back of the typographer's layouts and composition, before the pressmen ever get sight of the forms under and around and above all of this is an IDEA which is being interpreted by those who work out the details.

Backed by the confidence built during its 19 years of printing business experience in Appleton, Petersen's believe that its organization can assist in the development of ideas that will help business concerns in deciding just what form of printing it can use to best advantage. This firm believes that it's modern printing plant, worked by men of excellent ability, can produce what comprises in many clients' minds, "distinguished service."

Like other printers, Petersen's strive to produce work of which it can be proud to have had a part in planning and making. In addition, Petersen Press prefers to take just a little more time in turning out its printing jobs than seems absolutely necessary so that it may put into its work that type of craftsmanship which distinguishes good work from the mediocre.

Samples of the firm's printing will gladly be shown without the slightest obligation to those who will stop at its local headquarters, 604 W. College avenue. If this is inconvenient, the firm's representative, "Hap" Waltman, will gladly stop at the home or business office of interested prospects who phone 1384 and request this service.

Clerk Receives First Board Budget Notice

Clerk Carl J. Becker was notified today that the Appleton Vocational school board has set a tax rate of 1.1 mills on the valuation of Appleton to cover the city's share of the operation costs of the vocational school. It was the first budget report received by the clerk. The city budget will be framed in November.

clever. Perhaps I meant something else." Cecily waited, wondering if he were going to explain himself. "Perhaps I should have said I don't like cold little girls." Cecily wondered if he had ever seen her look quite as cold as she did that moment. "You see? Just when I thought you were melting a trifle, you freeze up again." Continued Monday.

Meet Mr. Lochinvar

By Marie Blizard

"Or is it something personal?" Philip persisted. He drew a chair up and sat directly in front of her, only a short distance separating their knees. Cecily wanted to draw away; instead, she stiffened slightly. Then she relaxed.

"It's a letter from my brother," she said, not wishing to seem ungracious. She added, "He met a mule as stubborn as himself on a country road and, for once, the mule won."

"Tell me about your brother," Philip asked, winning her with his remark. "I'm prejudiced about him, Philip. I think he's the grandest in the world! He's my twin, you know, but much more clever. He's going to medical school this year and become a great surgeon."

"Clever men are all right. I don't like clever girls." "Don't you?" Cecily returned, unable to think of anything else to say. Philip had a way of saying things that left her at a loss for further conversation.

"I mean that I don't like obvious cleverness," he continued at once. "As I obviously clever?" He hesitated a moment, then he said, "I thought you were at first. Isn't it clever for a little girl to assert her independence by going into business and making a success of it when she doesn't have to?"

"What makes you think that I don't have to?" she asked quietly. Perhaps he thought that she was an heiress. Perhaps that was why he said—

"I shouldn't have used the word

"I don't care if you are the Judge's niece. Save time by getting Hoffmann's Puritan Bakery specials instead of by speeding!"
